What a Landslide! Wall St. Dislikes It Homes, Farms, Tax Free We Need More Money

— By Arthur Brisbane —

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES have won by a landslide that surprises and frightens them.

One man is not surprised, namely Lord Beaverbrook, who was born in Canada and learned to look at British affairs calmly from a distance. Ten days ago he telegraphed this writer from London:

"The Nationalists will have 400 seats in the House."

Ramsay MacDonald is re-elected by a diminished majority. It is therefore not necessary to "kick him upstairs into the House of Lords," making him a peer to let him continue as head of the government.

Lady Astor of America, and Lloyd George's daughter, two intelligent young women, are re-elected.

One of the political cartoons most frequently used in the campaign showed British workmen out of jobs, on a dock, where ships were landing boxes labelled, "Germany," "Japan," "United States," etc.

The idea was to make workmen understand that free trade means free competition in labor.

With this election, Britain becomes a protectionist country, an important step and a great change.

Wall Street woke up to find Britain "gone protectionist," and brokers didn't like it. They said: "That will close British markets to United States exports, and business won't be so good."

London's Stock Exchange was much pleased and prices went up, from the opening. But a stock exchange, which means largely the "floor trader," often looks no farther ahead than three o'clock the same afternoon.

Wall Street and the rest of the world may learn that better times for England must mean better times for every country.

The British Socialist-Labor party that threw overboard Ramsay MacDonald, who had led their party to power, disowning him merely because he put patriotism ahead of party, got exactly what it deserved.

For the time being it ceases to exist as an element of any importance and lies flat on its back, defeated, with MacDonald at the head of the united government.

Mr. McCampbell, of Holmdel, N. J., candidate for the State legislature, has an idea that should elect him and many others, adopting his idea.

He would exempt from taxation up to five thousand valuation any home in which a man lives and exempt farms up to ten thousand dollars.

He suggests that a man raising a family should be put on a basis of "tax equality" with a vast amount of untaxed invisible wealth and millions of untaxed visible property held by government institutions, schools, churches, preachers, fraternal orders, etc.

That's a sound suggestion. If the Lord should see a man raising his family in a little house, struggling to pay his tax bill, and the Episcopalian Cathedral of St. John the Divine, costing several millions, free of taxes, who doubts that he would say, "Turn that around, free the little man from taxes. Christians able to build a five million dollar church for me are able to pay taxes on it."

Write this on your tablet: THE MONEY SYSTEM OF THE WORLD WILL BE MODIFIED.

Ninety per cent of the world's people and nations are off the gold standard. Two countries have gold, the United States and France. The others must use something for money, and will use silver, the only other precious metal.

The average human being knows what silver is or thinks he does. When a Chinese got an English bank note, even in days when it was supposed to represent gold, he hurried to the bank and changed it for silver taels. Then he knew he had money.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, wants silver made into money at the rate of 14 to 1. That won't happen.

But the amount of silver produced during the last ten years has averaged less than 13 times the amount of gold produced, weight for weight, and gold is selling at almost SEVENTY TIMES the price of silver, weight for weight.

That will not last. All the gold in the world amounts to about 11 per cent of one year's income of the United States in good times. The world cannot do business on that amount of money, hokus-pokus or juggle it as you will.

Utilize silver on a proper basis, and you will stop hoarding. If President Hoover and Secretary Mellon will realize that and act energetically and promptly they will start busi-

LION KILLS U. S. TOURIST

London, Oct. 29—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dares-Salaam, Tanganyika, East Africa, today said that an American tourist named Heron was clawed to death by a lion which he was in the act of shooting while two American companions prepared to photograph the feat. The last names of Heron's two companions were Peret and Home, the dispatch said.

The tragedy happened on the Serengetti plains. Peret and Home had their camera trained on Heron and he was about to shoot when the lion charged. Heron was badly clawed and was rushed to a hospital, but he died later.

FIRST KISS HIT CONNOLLY'S BALD SPOT

Auto Dealer Admits Spinster Petted Him; He Liked Her More as He Knew Her

Barnstable, Oct. 29—Weak and trembling, his voice scarcely audible, James H. Connolly, 62-year-old Hyannis millionaire, in Superior Court today, gave his version of his "courtship" of Miss Lydia Brimmer, 50, who is suing him for $300,000 heart balm.

She urged him to make a will, he declared, on the night of the party at the Hotel Commander in Cambridge, where gin was drunk and he became ill.

She "pawed" him and patted him and planted kisses on his bald head, he said, when their acquaintanceship was but a few days old.

She talked of marriage until a proposal "just grew," like Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin, he also testified.

SUICIDE IN HER MIND

Talk of suicide by Miss Brimmer was another highlight of the curious courtship that the sickly defendant told the jury about, in a voice so low that the witness chair was moved over beside the rail of the jury-box.

Spectators laughed as he insisted under cross-examination that his chief interest in the Chatham woman was the hope of selling her an automobile.

"And I liked to hear her talk."

SHIP, 8 MEN IN PERIL; AID SENT

Pounded by terrific seas whipped by a northeast gale, the three-masted schooner Albert H. Willis, bound from Boston to New York with a crew of eight, was reported in distress and calling for help today near Seconnett Light, between New Bedford and Providence.

Coast Guard patrol boat 133 is standing by, with tugs on the way from New Bedford to the vessel's rescue.

No details of the Willis' plight were given in the message from Chief Boatswain H. C. Lord of the 133 to Commander Don Hessler of Coast Guard Base 18, Falmouth, but it is feared she is unmanageable with her rigging torn away by the wind.

The schooner, which is not equipped with engines, sailed from Boston Sunday. Until recently the 158-foot vessel as owned by George D. Rogers, of 110 State st., but now is the property of Kenny & Cors, of New York.

VOTE PROBE UPSET BY SHOUTING

Councillor Ruby Interrupted at the City Hall Session; Two Names Stricken From List

Two men were ejected and heated charges were hurled today at City Hall in a stormy hearing before the election commissioners on charges that "mattress voters" were registered in Ward 14, Dorchester.

One of the men shouted a remark at City Councillor Israel Ruby during the questioning of Harry Lofchie of Duke st., Dorchester. Ruby charged Lofchie was illegally registered.

"Throw that man out," shouted Commissioner Rose. Two policemen did so.

The other man was ejected on a signal from Chairman Tague after he interrupted the questioning of Benjamin Pook of 211 Columbia rd., Dorchester. Pook was also in Ruby's charges.

TWO LISTINGS KILLED

Two of five other men, summoned to explain their registrations in the ward, failed to appear, and Chairman Tague ordered their names stricken from the voting list. They were Joseph Gray and Alfred DeLucca, registered at 144 Geneva ave., Dorchester.

Chairman Tague made his ruling after the janitor of the building testified that he did not know the men.

The case of Lofchie was taken under advisement after Mrs. Rita Oranberg, legal resident of the Duke st. address, testified Lofchie was a boarder at her house when the police listed April 1.

Pook, whom Ruby said really lived at 180 School st., Quincy, denied that he lived there. He said it was the home of his mother-in-law that he visited frequently.

BACKED BY WIFE

Mrs. Pook agreed with her husband and said they lived with Pook's mother at the Columbia rd. address. His case was taken under advisement.

Maurice M. Goldman, candidate against Ruby, sought a chance to speak at the hearing, and was told he could talk only if Ruby summoned him as a witness.

Ruby made no move to do so, and Goldman was refused.

The hearing adjourned to allow Ruby to appear as a witness in a Suffolk Court case.

JUDGE HOLMES' HEALTH FADES

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—The absence of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes from the sessions of the Supreme Court this week has aroused apprehension among close friends that he may be unable to continue actively the discharge of his duties to the close of the present term of court in June.

The jurist and author was 90 last March, and seemingly has lost much vitality during the last summer.

Since the present term began, October 5, it has been noticed he no longer maintains his characteristically erect bearing and he has experienced more difficulty in arising from his seat on the bench.

The increased feebleness has been attributed to a mild attack of lumbago, but while the justice has continued diligently to note all proceedingly in court, his customary friendly smile has been absent.

FARMER CUTS OFF OWN HAND

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29 (AP)—John Oglesby, 44, a farmer of Williamsville, today amputated his own right hand after it became inextricably caught in the cogs of a corn husker.

Half an hour he tugged at the hand before giving up hope of saving it. Then, with his left hand, he reached into his pocket and brought out a pocket knife. He handed it to Frank Sharp, a neighbor, whom he had been helping.

"Open it," he said. Then, pointing to the hand, "cut it off."

Sharp balked. Oglesby took the knife and severed the hand at the wrist. An hour later he walked into the Springfield hospital, puffing a pipe.

"I cut my hand off," he said.

5 Cotton Pickers Killed in Crash

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 29 (AP)—A truck loaded with cotton pickers went into a ditch near Marion, Ark., early today, carrying five persons to death and injuring a score.

Occupants of the truck, residents of Marietta and Curtisville, Miss., were being moved 35 miles north of Marion, where they were to pick cotton.

SON FINDS J. E. BURKE DEAD IN HIS BED

Boston School Head Stricken Only Yesterday at Flag Service Here

Supt. of Schools Jeremiah E. Burke was found dead in bed today at his home, 60 Alban st., Dorchester, by his son, Edmund. Death had come in his sleep, following an attack of indigestion. He was 64 years old.

Memorial exercises will take place in all the schools of the city at 1:30 tomorrow, after which the pupils will be dismissed. A special public meeting of the school committee will be held tomorrow evening to honor the deceased.

He had not been ill except for a few hours yesterday afternoon, and his passing was a shock to his family, his wide circle of friends and many associates in the school department and other branches of the city government.

Supt. Burke was taken ill at his office, 15 Beacon st., yesterday afternoon after returning from exercises at the new Mary E. Curley School in Jamaica Plain, where flags were presented to the school by the Women's Patriotic and Civic League.

INTO LAST LONG SLEEP

A doctor who happened to be in the school department offices treated him and after a rest he went home a little earlier than usual. A Boston Evening American reporter who called to see him at his office about saving "Old Ironsides" learned of his illness, and late editions of the Evening American yesterday told of it.

Going to bed early in the evening, Supt. Burke fell asleep and did not awaken. His son, who is an attorney, went into his room at

MACDONALD VISITS KING TO PICK NEW CABINET

BALDWIN READY TO ASSIST IN SELECTION

Neville Chamberlain Favored to Succeed Snowden as Chancellor

London, Oct. 29—Prime Minister MacDonald went to Buckingham Palace immediately after breakfast this morning and conferred with King George.

The conference lasted more than an hour. MacDonald then returned to his office at 10 Downing st. As he left the palace he was cheered by a large crowd.

With the backing of the newly-elected Tory majority in the House of Commons, the prime minister turned to the task of organizing the new cabinet, whose membership probably will be increased from 10 to 20, the usual number prior to the organization of the emergency ministry.

BALDWIN TO ASSIST

In making definite decisions the prime minister will be guided by the advice of the king and of the Conservative leader Stanley Baldwin as spokesman for the Tory majority.

Both MacDonald and Baldwin, as well as the National Liberal leader, Sir Herbert Samuel, have made it plain that "national co-operation" should continue to be the keynote of the government's policies.

So large, however, will be the Conservative representation in Parliament—a total of 475 seats out of 615, that pressure was already being brought to bear today upon MacDonald to give that party a larger majority of Cabinet posts.

DEMAND FOR TARIFF.

Having made a protective tariff the leading issue in their campaign the Conservatives want to push through a tariff bill as soon as possible after Parliament gets into action on November 10.

During the campaign, MacDonald did not commit himself on the protection issue, although declaring he would not oppose a tariff if he believed it was necessary as an emergency measure to aid in the restoration of a favorable trade balance.

For the post of chancellor of the exchequer, vacated by the failure of Philip Snowden to stand for re-election, it was expected that one of the Conservative protection advocates, probably Neville Chamberlain, would be named.

MacDonald was reported to favor Walter Runciman, a Liberal, as Snowden's successor, but it was not believed that he would insist upon appointing his candidate in view of the strong demands of the Conservatives for Chamberlain.

TO STABILIZE POUND

In addition to the tariff problem, early attention also will be given to the stabilizing of the pound sterling, and the various measures of public economy, such as limitation of armament and progressive reduction of unemployment insurance.

Following careful sifting of party allegiances seats in the new House of Commons were classified today as follows, with four constituencies missing:

Unless Arthur Henderson, defeated Labor leader, is returned to Parliament in a special election, it was expected that David Lloyd George would become the leader of the opposition, although his effectiveness would be limited to verbal criticism of the government.

MANY WIN BIG WAGERS

The treasury will be approximately $50,000 richer for the cash forfeits of 86 candidates who failed to poll one-eighth of the total votes in their constituencies. These include all but two members of Sir Oswald Moseley's "new party."

The Daily Express said today that many speculators were enriched and many lost large sums in dealing in "majorities," which was the stock exchange's unofficial market on election prognostications.

BURKE ILL ONE DAY, THEN DIES

6 o'clock this morning and found he had died in his sleep.

Besides his son, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Matilda Lynch Burke; a daughter, Mrs. Paul J. Sullivan; one grandchild, Ann Sullivan, and a sister, Miss Catherine Burke.

FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

The funeral will be on Saturday, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mark's Church, Dorchester ave. The residence of the deceased was in the Ashmont section of Dorchester.

Supt. Burke was born June 25, 1867, at Frankfort, Me., the son of Patrick and Mary Burke. He prepared for college at the Eastern Maine Conference Seminary, then entering Colby College, where he received the degrees of bachelor of arts in 1890, master of arts in 1893 and the honorary degree of doctor of literature in 1915.

Villanova and Holy Cross awarded him honorary degrees of doctor of laws, the former in 1922 and the latter in 1925.

He taught school while attending college, and was superintendent of schools at Waterville, Me., in 1891, 1892 and 1893, while studying for his M. A. degree at Colby. The following year he was superintendent at Marlboro, Mass., and then for ten years, ended in 1904, he was superintendent of schools at Lawrence.

CAME IN 1904

He then transferred to Boston, where he was assistant superintendent from 1904 to 1921, at which time he was made superintendent, remaining in this post until his death.

He was a member of the Massachusetts State Board of Education from 1914 to 1917. By virtue of his office, he was also president of the Boston Teachers' College. Organizations of which he was a member included the New England Association of School Superintendents, Massachusetts Schoolmasters' Association, Delta Upsilon collegiate fraternity and the collegiate scholastic fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa.

He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus, an author of many articles on education and associate editor of Stories of the Emerald Isle.

The commemorative exercises in the schools, the progress for which the teachers are instructed to arrange, were ordered by the school committee in special session today.

All courses scheduled to open at Teachers' College Saturday will start November 7 instead. The school board adopted resolutions deeply regretting the death of Dr. Burke.

Curley and Other Leaders in Tribute to J. E. Burke

Supt. Jeremiah E. Burke, who died today, developed a school system which gave Boston a reputation in the field of education superior to that of any other large city in America, Mayor Curley said.

Other public officials and prominent citizens also issued statements on the death of the school head, in which they mourned the loss of a friend and a notable figure in the life of the city, State and Nation.

MAYOR CURLEY—The death of Dr. Burke marks the passing of one of the ablest leaders in the field of national education. His wife has lost a devoted husband, his children a kindly father, the field of education an able leader and I have lost a friend whom I prized. He gave 40 continuous years to divising a school curriculum along the most liberal and progressive lines, and his devoted service in the Boston public schools gave to our city a reputation in the field of education superior to that enjoyed by any other metropolitan city.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Boston health commissioner: The city of Boston, the schools and education in general have lost a wonderful leader.

CITY COUNCILLOR RICHARD D. GLEASON, Roxbury: News of the death of Supt. Burke is a cause of much sorrow to me, and I know to all residents of the Roxbury district. His efforts in behalf of our children will long be remembered.

CITY COUNCILLOR PETER A. MURRAY, Forest Hills: No man ever worked harder in the interests of the children of the city of Boston than Supt. Burke. The fine condition of the Boston school department is a tribute to his memory. His death has caused a genuine sorrow, and I join with his other friends in mourning his passing.

EDMUND L. DOLAN, city treasurer: The death of Supt. Burke is a great shock to all who knew him. It emphasizes the severe strain which accompanies a position of such importance.

PATRICK T. Campbell, assistant superintendent of schools: In the death of Dr. Burke the children of Boston have lost a champion and a loving friend. The world knew him as an orator, a profound scholar, a master of his profession, but the teachers and pupils thought of him always as kindly and thoughtful.

WILLIAM M. McMOROW, city collector: The school department has lost a valuable instructor and a sterling character.

CHARLES J. FOX, budget commissioner: The Boston school system has lost an able and efficient director and leader. Under his rule the Boston school department has undergone a complete transformation.

WILLIAM B. SNOW, assistant superintendent of school: We are all tremendously shocked by the loss of a leader who for years has performed wonderful service in Boston schools. His two outstanding achievements were development of the Teachers' College and of character education.

JOHN C. BRODHEAD, assistant superintendent of schools: Mr. Burke has been a wonderful influence in our school department. He did not make decisions alone, but engaged in constant consultation.

JURY HAS 'DOPE QUEEN' CASE

Charges and countercharges were hurled in Federal court today before the case of Rebecca "Becky" Silverman, 37, alleged "dope queen" and mother of two boys, was given the jury.

She was tried for alleged sale of two ounces of morphine. Prosecutors said her arrest was "her first in 10 years in the racket." The case was before Judge Lowell.

William H. Lewis, counsel for Mrs. Silverman, said:

"There is something mysterious in this case. How did these officers know that Benjamin Fox (to whom the sale was alleged to have been made) was to meet Mrs. Silverman with the marked $100 bill? Was it a prearranged scheme to frame this defendant?"

Asst. Dist. Atty. Stone retorted.

"It is not the purpose of the United States to frame anybody."

"Dope has caused more suffering than the whole of the World War. By its sale, this woman has helped to undermine society."

Dancer Asks $50,000 for Injury in Crash

Providence, Oct. 29—Asserting her face was permanently disfigured in an auto crash, Martha Marchant, Milwaukee dancer, today filed suit for $50,000 in Superior Court against Byron C. Jordan, local contractor.

She alleges a truck owned by Jordan collided with the machine in which she was riding with her husband in Broad st., Sept. 8. Mr. Marchant also filed suit against Byron for $10,000 claiming personal injuries.

ARMS HOLIDAY PLAN FACING FAILURE

Only Few Small Nations Have Accepted Idea; Larger Powers Are Delaying Replies

(Copyright, 1931, By International News Service)

Paris, Oct. 29 (INS)—League of Nations' efforts to induce the world to agree to a one-year armament holiday apparently have failed.

The time limit set by the League for replies to its invitation to the powers to state "whether they are prepared for a period of one year from that date (November 1, 1931) to acept this truce of disarmament," expires at midnight Saturday.

Inquiry made by International News Service of the League secretariat by telephone to Geneva today shows the results to date have been almost nil.

ONLY FEW REPLIES

The League addressed its appeal last September to 52 nations, Including the United States and Soviet Russia, non-members.

Thus far replies have been received only from Switzerland tiny Albania, Luxembourg, a mere dot on the world map with its comic opera army of a few score soldiers in resplendent uniforms, and Egypt.

The Soviet government which accepts any and all disarmament proposals to prove to the world that it is the capitalistic powers alone that are threatening world peace has also sent a response.

Two other states, Finland and Belgium, have informed the league they will return favorable answers before midnight Friday. Press dispatches report the United States, Japan and Holland will also accept the truce, the first two powers with reservations, but no communications from their governments had reached Geneva today.

BIG NATIONS WAIT

France, greatest military power of all Europe, has not forwarded any reply and perhaps is awaiting the decision of Great Britain. Italy's reply likewise is still awaited.

CRASH BREAKS LOVE NEWS

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—The crash of Miss Alicia Patterson's airplane near South Bend, Ind., yesterday while it was being piloted by Joseph W. Brooks of New York, led today to the revelation that Miss Patterson and Brooks were engaged and are to be married this winter.

Miss Patterson is touring Europe with Mrs. Alton A. Brody, daughter of Irvin S. Cobb. Brooks has been using her plane while she is away. He was bound for New York yesterday when a gust of wind tossed the plane against a tree as he landed, and the craft caught fire. Brooks was slightly hurt.

Early today it was announced by the New York Daily News—published by Joseph Medill Patterson, the young woman's father—they are engaged.

ness going, encourage trade all over the world and especially among one thousand million human beings that have no gold.

And incidentally THEY WILL MEET WISELY A VERY BIG DANGER FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN 1932.

In New York State forest fires are attributed to "sportsmen" shooting and setting fire to dry leaves. The State politely urges them to be cautious.

It should tell them to take their guns and matches home and stop shooting.

We inherit from cave ancestors a desire to kill something, but killing isn't necessary to happiness.

New York State has recently paid thousands of dollars to boys for raising pheasants, one dollar for each pheasant. The birds are turned loose and for a short time each year those that like to kill things are permitted to shoot them.

A civilized government pays little boys to raise birds that adults may kill when birds are needed to protect farmers from insect pests that destroy crops.

If birds were properly protected, harmful insects would disappear. The shooters should confine their aim to stray cats, foxes, weasels and other enemies of birds.

Prof. Einstein, a skyscraper among highbrows patiently taking the universe apart and putting it together again, like a child with a jig-saw puzzle, abandons early theories. Now he has "a vector with five components, or determination elements in a space of four dimensions, which is the Einsteinian space-time-continuum." If that isn't perfectly plain write to the professor.

Another super highbrow, Dr. De Sitter, from Holland, measuring the universe on his own account, finds that it is limited but is expanding constantly "as the stars retreat." Also in the universe the total number of protons could be represented by a figure seven with 78 zeros after it.

Prof. Einstein says the universe was originally "space filled homogeneously with a certain amount of matter, but with no motion." And Dr. De Sitter says it was "a finite original universe, having no matter, only motion." Take your choice.

Fortunately, we only argue about it, and no longer burn each other up for disagreeing.

If You Drive in Teens Hire a Lawyer, for You'll Need One

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 29 (INS)—Drive an automobile while in your 'teens and your chances of being involved in a personal injury accident are 39 per cent higher than the average for all other age periods combined.

An analysis of accident records of 4,000,000 auto operators in states requiring licensed drivers disclosed to the Travelers Insurance Co. that safety in driving improves with age—of the operator, not the car. The "age of discretion," records indicated, began at 30.

BORAH'S PLAN IS FAVORED BY DEMOCRATS

Oppose War Debt Slash Unless German Reparations Are Reduced

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 29—The attitude of Democratic congressional leaders in opposing an extension of the Hoover debt moratorium today developed into outspoken opposition to scaling down war debts unless every other international problem is settled.

They will refuse to slash war debts, unless German reparations are proportionally reduced, military armaments curtailed and the Versailles treaty revised.

BORAH'S OWN PLAN.

This was the plan originally outlined by Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

One Democratic leader, who frequently has been summoned to White House conferences and has led a number of administration fights on foreign affairs, said:

"It is foolish to think that Congress will scale down or cancel our war debts in these hard times. Congress will never agree to saddle $11,000,000,000 of debts on American taxpayers solely to relieve European taxpayers, and certainly not when nations like France are more prosperous than our own."

FAVORABLE TO BRITAIN

This Democrat said there was a possibility that the British debt to the United States might be scaled down by revising the funding program.

"The British were honorable," he said. "They were the first to enter an agreement to pay their debt. We did not have to dun them. She is paying 71 per cent of her original debt, while France is paying only 51 per cent.

PINS IN STEW; HE WINS SON

Salem, Oct. 29—Percy Howe of Parkland rd., Lynn, told Judge Harry R. Dow in probate court today that he had found a handful of pins in a fish chowder his wife, Susanne, prepared for him.

Howe testified in a suit brought by his wife for separate support, alleging desertion. She asks custody of their three children.

During the cross-examination of Howe by Atty. William F. Shanahan, Judge Dow halted the testimony and declared he had decided to allow the 14-year-old son, Robert, to live with his father.

"After the testimony of the boy the other day," said the judge, "that he did not love his mother, I believe that at that age she will not be able to force him to love her. Therefore she will be unable to exercise any control over him."

He reserved decision as to the custody of the other two children, Percy, Jr., 10, and John, 8.

In previous testimony, Howe said his wife would not love him and that when he left he wrote a letter reading:

"You have made me a nervous wreck by refusing to be my wife. Please let the children come to see me."

Thomas, Socialist Leader, Is Freed

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 29—Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, who was arrested September 3 while challenging the legality of Judge Forster W. Freeman's ruling on picketing during strikes, was freed yesterday by Judge Freeman, before whom he came to trial on charges of unlawful assemblage. Forty-nine other pickets, including two ministers, also were absolved.

Lusbock, Tex., Oct. 29 (AP)—Mme. Clare Clairbert still lacks a 4-leaf clover to go with her white rabbit's foot, but has escaped the stipulated penalty for walking on the court house lawn.

Clare Clairbert

The Belgian opera singer, here for a concert, decided yesterday a 4-leaf clover might add to her luck and, with the rabbit's foot in her purse, stepped on the court house grass to hunt one.

A deputy constable was dutiful in reminding her of the sign announcing a $5 fine for the offense. Mme. Clairbert was contrite. Justice W. S. Clark was sympathetic. His verdict was confined to a request that the singer seek her tokens elsewhere in the future.

R. C. Johnson

When he retires March 4, 1933, he will have been in public life for more than half of his 51 years, 16 of them as Representative.

Johnson was one of three Representatives who enlisted during the World War. He was wounded severely and decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre.

"I'm tired of public life," the South Dakotan said. "I want to get out.

The opera star, who in private life is Mrs. Alessandro Alberini, refused to comment on the action. Her husband, however, laid the fault to the stock market.

Senator Moses Predicts Democratic Speaker

Concord, N. H., Oct. 29—That the next House of Representatives will be organized by the Democrats, with a Democratic speaker, was predicted by Senator George H. Moses in an address before the Churchmen's Club here last night.

Sen. Moses

In commenting on the President's naval economy program Senator Moses said:

"The President's naval program will be debated and it is well to remember that the President does not propose to halt naval construction. In fact, it has been emphasized that the naval economies will not infringe upon the building program calling for construction to the amount of $65,000,000 in the next year."

FIGHT FOR LIFE ON DESERT ISLAND DESCRIBED BY CASTAWAYS

Mrs. Judd's Own Story

ENRAGED BY JEALOUSY, I FALSELY ACCUSE BOY OF KIDNAPING ME

Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, facing a fight for her life, is shown as she appeared in Los Angeles after her surrender in the double trunk murders. (International Newsreel photo.)

Here is the second instalment of the life story of Winnie Ruth Judd, written with her own pen and in her own language—her personal story. In the first instalment, published yesterday, Mrs. Judd expressed her determination to tell everything, to hold back nothing. She will name the men and women who have played an important part in her life and detail the events which led up to the dramatic and startling events at Phoenix.

by—Ruth Judd

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

My mother was a nurse and she never married until she was 38. My father was a minister. They lived in a little three-room apartment at Oxford, Ind., where I was born.

My father had a circuit. He was a circuit minister. He had two or three other circuits; one in Pine Village, Ind. and they used to take me over there, where they gave me the name, "Merry Sunshine."

As a child I was always very fond of babies. Unusually fond of them, I should say. At the age of seven we were living on a farm and I suddenly felt that I wanted a baby in our family, wanted a baby so badly that one day I conceived of going to school and announcing to my classmates that we had a baby at our house.

I told all my schoolmates that we had a baby. They told my teacher—her name was Miss Dietch, I believe. The neighbors on the way home from school questioned me.

They said:

"Why, we saw your mother only this afternoon driving in the coach!"

I said:

And I kept on for days, telling about this baby and all the things it could do, although it wasn't any more than two days old, until it was walking all over the place. It was just a child's story and I made it up just like stories in school.

I was very fond of my daddy. I always went with him on his circuit rides. He had four churches, spending one Sunday at each church.

LIKED TO READ

My father first studied law under Judge Longnecker of Chicago. I think he was a prominent attorney, and then, later on, my father became a minister.

My father used to take quite a pleasure in telling me lots of things that were even beyond my age.

I used to read when I was a tiny child. I used to read these classics, that is, the lives of all the European nobility and all those things when I was only a child of eight years old. My father encouraged me along these lines.

Then, when I was of a high school age, instead of sending me to a public high school, my parents sent me to a theological seminary, where they thought I would go only with men. They wanted me either to marry a minister in time or to be a missionary myself.

A man well-known in the Methodist church dedicated me as a missionary when I was only five years old and the thought was instilled in my mind always that I had been dedicated.

So, at the high school age, my parents thought it was wise to send me to school where I would be taught religious things so that I would either become a missionary or, if I in time married, that I would marry a missionary.

There was one boy, the son of the professor of theology and homo-

TRUNK DIARY BARES ORGIES

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 29—Astounding new secrets of the intimate diary of Agnes Ann Leroi, "trunk murder" victim, leaked out from two sources today and rocked Phoenix official and social circles with threatened exposures of rich "playboys" who helped Miss Leroi and her chum, Hedwig Samuelson, "enjoy life" in gay "orgies."

Miss Leroi's diary, replete with word pictures of her own emotions, and said also to reveal names of social and business leaders, has been suppressed, according to investigators, because of its damaging contents.

BARES RIVALRIES

Today it became known Miss Leroi had written her diary full of quotations from the sensational book, Radclyffe Hall's "Well of Loneliness."

Bitterness, jealousy, rivalry and hatred were said to be the theme of the diary.

Officials admitted the diary existed today but sought to give the impression that the diary might not be used as evidence in the trial of Mrs. Ruth Judd, "tiger woman of Phoenix," who awaits extradition from Los Angeles to stand trial for the murders.

DIARY IS SEIZED

The diary was said to have been divided into two parts, one containing intimate details of the "party lives" of the slain girls.

This section of the diary is said to be in the hands of an attorney who is guarding its contents in the interests of wealthy men clients whose names may be drawn into the baffling "all woman triangle."

Reduction Accepted by Mail Carriers

HOPE OF ENDING MILL STRIKE IS BLASTED

Governor Finds Both Sides Reject 5 Per Cent Pay Reduction Proposal

Hopes of settlement of the Lawrence strike, blasted by refusal of both sides to agree to a 5 per cent wage cut compromise, received a further setback today when Gov. Ely expressed the opinion it would be impossible to end the strike by that means.

His statement followed denials by labor leaders and mill officials of reports that workers were to return to the mills under a compromise agreement pending arbitration.

"I'm sorry to say that it has been impossible to make any arrangements for workers to return under a 5 per cent cut," the Governor said.

"In my opinion it will be impossible to end the strike by that method."

The situation was further intensified by discovery that the American Woolen Company is shipping more machinery to Utica, N. Y.

This followed announcement by the Moses T. Stevens & Sons Co., the permanent closing of its Osgood yarn mill in North Andover, affecting 100 employes, and dismissal of the entire force of 30 printers and engravers at the Pacific Mills here.

PICKETING EXTENDED

At the same time it was learned labor leaders left Lawrence today to organize pickets at mills in other communities in the state where unfinished work from the local mills is being shipped.

Asked about the rumor of a compromise agreement on a 5 per cent wage cut pending arbitration, Horace A. Riviere, organizer of the United Textile Workers' Union, said:

"You can say for me, and also for Vice-President Francis J. Gorman, we will not consider any compromise."

Robert J. Watt, president of the Lawrence Central Labor Union, characterized the compromise report as a "myth."

Mill officials were more emphatic in denying they would participate in a compromise agreement or recede from their original demand that a 10 per cent reduction was absolutely essential.

President Franklin W. Hobbs of the Arlington Mills, who paid a brief visit here today to confer with mill officials, said:

"Any suggestion that the Arlington Mills have or will consider a compromise with the strikers, is an outrage. The mill will not consider any compromise."

Conditions were quiet on the picket lines today, with about 1000 on watch at the various mills.

In district court two men were found guilty of intimidation and disturbance at the Arlington Mills and were fined a total of $125 each. The men, who appealed, were Philip Lajunesse, 20, of 19 Stafford st., and Michael Marusewicz, 24, of 8 Bromfield st.

In disposing of Lajunesse's case, Judge Frederic N. Chandler said:

"It is a sad commentary on the law when people who want to work are not allowed to do so without being molested. It is a sad commentary on the so-called free America."

IRENE RICH HAS QUIT HUSBAND

Los Angeles, Oct. 29 (AP)—The Times said today Irene Rich, film actress, and her husband, David Blankenhorn, investment broker, had separated and that divorce proceedings would be filed by the wife here this week.

The newspaper quoted Miss Rich as saying "a totally different viewpoint on a great many matters, especially money," was the cause of the rift.

Miss Rich married Blankenhorn four and one-half years ago, soon after Blankenhorn's first wife obtained her final divorce papers. It was the third marriage for Miss Rich. Her first was a girlhood romance with Elvo Deffenbaugh. She later married Maj. Charles Rich.

Ford Pay-Cutting Wages 15 Per Cent

Detroit, Oct. 29 (INS)—Readjustment of wage scales of workers at the Ford Motor Company factories is being effected gradually, according to reports today.

The readjustment, for the most part, is 15 per cent lower than the present wages, it was learned.

Some workers, receiving $7 a day, have been discharged and then rehired at $6 a day. Ford officials refused a statement, but recently had declared that "something in the way of a readjustment may be forthcoming."

CAPE COD MAN SAVED AT SEA

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Frank Casper, 24, who set out from Cape Cod, Mass., in August for a pleasure cruise to Miami in a motor boat, arrived here aboard the liner Zacapa after drifting for seven days.

The motor of Casper's boat failed during the voyage. His boom was broken and his sail swept away in a storm.

He was picked up by the Metapan of the United Fruit Co. and taken to Kingston, Jamaica, where he was transferred to the Zacapa.

Casper encountered a storm after leaving Norfolk, Va., on Oct. 12, he said, and was so disabled by the weather that he had no alternative but drift aimlessly.

BRIDE SEEKS $200,000 BALM

Worcester, Oct. 29—"My Tommy is worth more to me than the whole $200,000."

Thus did Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, 58-year-old bride, comment today on suits of $50,000 each she filed against four relatives of Thomas McCarthy, 53, her husband of eight months.

Mrs. McCarthy charged her bridegroom was spirited away by Mary G. McCarthy, a sister; James Dyer, a nephew; Mrs. Alice G. Dyer and Miss Florence K. Dyer, nieces of McCarthy.

Since she last saw her husband Monday, Mrs. McCarthy has been holding forth in the Oread st. "love nest" furnished by relatives of McCarthy when the couple got married.

Sued for $50,000

Florence K. Dyer is named defendant in one of four suits for $50,000 each filed in Worcester by Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, 58-year-old bride of Thomas McCarthy, retired merchant. Mrs. McCarthy charges her husband's relatives combined to steal his love from her.

TRIO IN GRIP OF DESPAIR AT RESCUE

Modern Robinson Crusoes in Thrilling Account of Six Month Wait

The Boston Evening American herewith presents exclusively the joint narrative of three modern Robinson Crusoes—the trio were castaways on the lonely Cocos Island since last April. This strange and thrilling story was radioed from the American gunboat Sacramento, which rescued the men.

By Capt. Elmer J. Palliser, Paul Stachwick, Gordon E. Brawner

Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc. All rights reserved. Publication in whole or in part prohibited.

Aboard U. S. S. Sacramento, Off Panama, Oct. 29—Don't ever try to tell us dreams don't come true. One dream all three of us have had, every day and every night for six months, is coming true right this minute.

We're on our way back to civilization!

And when we get back we can tell anybody who wants to know just what the toughest job in the world is.

KEPT BUSY WAITING

You can't tell about it, because there isn't anything to tell. You can't describe it, because there isn't anything to describe.

As Capt. Palliser kept saying every day since the 15th of April, when we were shipwrecked on Cocos Island:

"About all's we can do is wait, and we might as well get busy and do it."

We did. And if it hadn't been for the chance that put folks from Julius Fleischmann's yacht Camargo ashore a few days ago on the God-forsaken little dot of land 500 miles off Balboa to the southwest—we'd be waiting yet.

Our wait started on April 15th—a little over six months ago.

We had put out in the West Wind, our little 26 footer, and been forced to pull into Wafer Bay on Cocos Island because she was leaking badly and being pounded pretty hard in one of those quick squalls.

POUNDED BY TIDE

We had to swim ashore to see if we could make a landing safely.

But the waves were so high, and the going so tough, we decided to wait until the next day to beach the boat for repairs. If we had tried it then, I doubt whether we would have been able to save even the guns and stuff we found so handy later.

We let her ride the night out, and the next day, when it was calm, we rowed her to shore and put her on the beach. We didn't know the tides.

They piled up on us and began hammering away at our boat as though they had it in for her and were sore because she hadn't gone to the bottom. By the time we got our provisions ashore and a little of the tackle, the boat was done for.

They say time and tide waits for no man. Those tides sure didn't.

It was a slow tough job getting the little we saved ashore. What food we managed to take out was so saturated with seawater that even when we got it dried out, a lot of it wasn't fit to eat.

But we piled up what we could, and believe it or not, we didn't quite realize the fix we were in at first. We were so busy we didn't do much speculating. But the next day we did. I can't describe how we felt. It was a very terrible sort of empty feeling, and Gordon (Gordon Brawner) told us he felt a little sickish. That wasn't

These volunteer fans, called "expontaneos," often were badly gored. Their hope was that if they came out safe the ring managers would offer them a contract.

Roxbury Man Gets 2 Years in Death Fight

Malachia Geraphty of Forest st. Roxbury, was sentenced to tw years today for manslaughter i the death of a Roxbury opponent in a fist fight last month. Geraghty pleaded guilty in Suffolk Superior Court, before Judge Williams.

NAVY LEAGUE HITS HOOVER'S 'IGNORANCE'

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Charges of "abysmal ignorance" on the part of President Hoover and subordination of American sea forces to those of other powers form the spearhead of the Navy League's latest attack on the administration's naval policies.

Renewing its opposition to the proposed world armament building holiday, the league also revives the ghost of an old controversy between the President and the Senate.

It suggests that secret agreements with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain caused the administration's refusal to transmit to the Senate foreign relations committee the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London naval conference of 1930.

MEANT BIGGER WARS

The league is representative of much of the American sentiment for increased American naval armament. In its printed publication it describes itself as "an organization of civilians that for over a quarter of a century has specialized on accurate information as to naval matters."

The proposal of President Hoover to immunize sea-borne food during war brought the accusation that he had exhibited "abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained and of how they are used to accomplish their major mission."

"Acceptance of his suggestion would have worked, not only diametrically counter to the interests and weight of the United States in world affairs," the pamphlet contends, "but, in effect, would have made for bigger and bloodier wars, and yet such is the psychology that is not only controlling our internal naval policy, but dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers."

BUILDING LAGS

Reviewing events leading up to the London naval conference, and its aftermath, the league concludes that instead of building to catch up with Great Britain before the next conference, the President's actions are leading in a different direction.

BOY LIFER GLAD 'IT'S ALL OVER'

Asotin, Wash., Oct. 29 (AP)—Convicted of murder, twelve-year-old Hubert Niccols, Jr., faced life imprisonment in the penitentiary today with a degree of happiness.

Smiling on the jury that took two ballots to find him guilty yesterday of shooting Sheriff John Wormell, 72, during a grocery robbery Aug. 5, the frail 60-pound schoolboy said:

"Well, I'm glad it's over, and I'm happy they didn't send me to an insane asylum, for even smart men go nuts in a madhouse."

Hubert's attorneys admitted he shot the officer, leaving the jury to decide only whether he had been mentally responsible, and if so, whether he should be hanged or imprisoned for life.

FIRST KISS ON TOP OF HEAD

he said. "But not when she talked too much."

Scowling, he declared that her kisses on the top of his head left him indifferent, but he admitted he was "not displeased" by her company.

"I didn't plan the visit to the Hotel Commander," he testified. "The first I knew about it was when I got there. I planned to go home that night.

GRABBED AT THE RYE

"After dinner I felt ill and lay down in my room. Miss Brimmer came in and said: 'Henry, you don't look so well tonight. You ought to make a will. With my experience of 25 years in law offices, I will be able to help you.'

"That was the first time she called me Henry. I said I was skeptical about making a will and when she persisted I was evasive."

Questioned about an incident related by Miss Brimmer, when she had a bottle of prescription rye for her mother, who was ill, and Connolly snatched it from her, the defendant said:

"There was only a little in that bottle."

"How much?"

"Not over two fingers," suggested his attorney, Thomas C. O'Brien, and Connolly agreed.

PLANTED HER KISSES

Telling of a visit to Miss Brimmer's home at Chatham soon after their meeting last October, the widower testified:

"Miss Brimmer kept pawing around me, patting my head and telling me what a great woman she was."

"She sat on the arm of my chair and patted my head and planted kisses on the top of my head. Her mother said, 'My daughter is getting a fellow.'"

She spoke of marriage first, according to Connolly, and after a while her remarks developed into a sort of proposal to which he acquiesced, but illness later intervened and that was the reason why the marriage did not take place on the date set.

The "pawing and patting," according to Connolly, took place at her house on the night of their ride to Provincetown only a few days after they had met for the first time.

BEGAN TO GET SERIOUS

Regarding that auto ride, he said:

"She remarked to my nephew, who was in the front seat, 'Don't you think I would make a good wife?' She also talked to the chauffeur, Bill Reed, about divorce, and at one time I remarked, 'She's getting serious, eh, Bill?'"

A few days later, Connolly said, somebody told him that Miss Brimmer had said he was the first man she had ever met that she wanted to marry.

"Then one day she said, 'Why don't we get married; there's nothing between us except a difference of religion?' And after a while she said she wanted to be married right off, as soon as she could."

ASKED FOR MONEY

Connolly said he met Miss Brimmer on October 19, 1930, when a Mrs. Herlihy brought her into his office and introduced her.

"She told me she had some property worth $25,000 and she wanted a loan to pay the interest, amounting to $180. She said she was a lawyer and had made a lot of money, but had lost it in a land boom company and some stocks.

"A few days later I met her at the railroad station and she said her car had broken down. Her mother was with her. She said she guessed I would have to take her home, so I did. She wanted to borrow some more money, but I said I couldn't lend any more at that time."

$15 RING TOO CHEAP

Connolly said that on the way to Boston for wedding rings and trousseau he told Miss Brimmer his money was in great part tied up in building houses and he wanted to limit her clothing purchases to $1000.

At a jeweler's, he said, he told her to pick out a ring and she chose one costing $15. That was too cheap for him and he suggested a more expensive one, whereupon her choice descended on one costing $300.

"On my wedding day I had to go to the McLeod Hispital in Boston," he said, finishing his direct testimony. "I was feeling very bad. I was theer a week and confined at home another week."

A specialist testified yesterday that he had a severe attack of palsy at that time and that condition made him more susceptible to women.

USE THE SELLING VOICE

Beginning cross-examination, Attorney George Stanley Harvey, for Miss Brimmer, said to the defendant:

"Please speak louder, Mr. Connolly. Talk as if you were selling a car at your place in Hyannis"

Connolly admitted telephoning to Miss Brimmer on the day after their first meeting, but said it was with regard to the note for the money he was lending her.

"That day her car broke down, were you pleased?" he was asked.

"Not displeased, not pleased," was his answer.

"How about that day you showed her all the cars in your showrooms?"

"Why, I was very pleased," he said, and then added: "I had hopes of selling her an auto."

"Where did you think your pay was coming from?"

SEVEN HOURS ONE DAY

"I had only a business interest in her, that and liking to hear her talk," he said in reply to further questions, after he had admitted spending seven hours one day in Miss Brimmer's company. "But not when she talked all the time," he finished.

"You returned from Provincetown and sat before a nice fire in a comfortable chair, and she patted and kissed you on the head, you say? Well, did you like it?"

"I was indifferent," said Connolly.

"Were you displeased when she kissed you on the top of your bald head?"

"I did not care," he said.

EDISON LEAVES 2 SONS BULK OF ESTATE

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29—Thomas A. Edison left the bulk of his estate, estimated to be $12,000,000, to the two sons of his second marriage, leaving it largely to them to decide how much the older children could have and how soon they could get it.

He provided for his wife before he died and so left her nothing in the will filed today.

The value of the estate was not mentioned in the will.

BONDS ARE DIVIDED

Not only were Charles Edison and Theodore Edison, sons of the inventor and the widow, named executors but they also were made residuary legatees with full power to distribute the residue among themselves and their half brothers and sisters whenever they deem wise and in such proportion as they think best.

The will spoke of the widow as "my dear wife" and explained that no provision was made for her in the will because Edison had settled sufficient property on her while he lived.

Th einventor left all his shares of capital stock in Thomas A. Edison Industries, Inc., to Charles and Theodore. His railroad an dgovernment bonds and first mortgage bonds in the Edison Portland Cement Company are left to the six children for equal division.

BULK TO TWO SONS

All other securities are left to the children in the proportion of 40 per cent each to Charles and Theodore and five per cent each to the children of the first marriage.

The four children of the first marriage are Mrs. Marian Osler, Thomas A. Edison, Jr., Mrs. John Eyre Sloane and William L. Edison.

Among small bequests were: Among other bekuests were: $10,000 to William H. Meadowcraft, the late inventor's secretary; $10,000 to John S. Ott, laboratory associate of the electrical wizard for more than a half century who died as a result of shock occasioned by the news of Edison's death, and $8000 to Fred P. Ott, a brother of the inventor's laboratory assistant.

NO PUBLIC BEQUESTS

Those were the only bequests made to persons outside of the Edison family. They were the only bequests in which the amount of money involved were specifically stated.

There were no bequests to charitable or religious organizations.

MINISTER HAD 'EVIL SPIRIT'

Oldham, Eng., Oct. 29 (INS)—The strangest verdict in modern jurisprudence, harking back to the days when witches were burned at the stake, was recorded when a coroner's jury, probing the suicide of the Rev. F. W. C. Woollett, concluded that he "was possessed of an evil spirit."

This "evil spirit," according to testimony at the hearing, manifested itself in various forms of cruelty to his wife and children and quarrels with parishioners, which forced him to leave several vicarages.

At one time physicians prepared papers to have Woollett sent to an insane asylum. "Instead," remarked the coroner, "he was ordained in the church."

Breaking Up Atom May Reveal Way to Make Gold

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP) Installation of a huge electromagnet at the University of California by which two professors expect to perfect a method of breaking down the component parts of atoms and thus possibly solve a way to make gold out of less precious metals was announced today by the California Monthly, alumni publication.

Ernest O. Lawrence and Dr. M. Stanley Livingston, who are studying the problem, say they have been successful on a small scale in the basic principle of their experiment.

How Do Chorus Girls Manage?

The theatre knows no "sick list." Chorus girls just can't be "absent." Regardless of the "Time of Month," they must be on time, on their toes, and smiling. How do they do it? Nature doesn't spare them. They are always smiling and active because they have learned to stop all periodic pain for hours at a stretch, by the use of a perfectly harmless medicine called Midol.

It acts in seven minutes. Relief is complete. The pain is gone. You are comfortable again. Midol is not a narcotic and offers no interference with nature. All druggists; ask simply for Midol.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for coughs or colds that hang on, for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

Now two sizes 60c—$1.25.

OPTIONAL AUTO 'DEDUCTIBLE' PLAN URGED

As the joint legislative committee on ways and means listened today to arguments for and against the proposed deductible auto insurance policy, Representative John B. Maloney of Dorchester announced he would offer an amendment removing objections to the measure.

In brief, Representative Maloney's proposal, which he says has the approval of Governor Ely, who sponsored the deductible plan, would give autoists the option of taking that measure, or the present law with increased rates.

PARKMAN FOR PLAN

According to Maloney, his proposal would remove the chief objection to the deductible plan, contained in the requirement that the insured pay the second $100 in accident judgments. In order to get coverage for his $100, the insured would have to take out a second policy, on which the insurance companies could establish their own rates.

His amendment would set up the two alternate measures, permitting the motorist to take the one he preferred.

Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., in favoring the deductible plan, told the joint commitee the objections against it were not against the theory, but against the second $100 payment. He said that givin gan auto driver a financial interest in accident cases would act as a check on too-easy settlement of claims.

3 BILLS REFERRED

The bill with two others, one setting up a rating and control board in the department of insurance, and the other eliminating guests from coverage, were referred to the committee from the six reported to the legislature the first of the week.

"The deductible plan is as good machinery as can be devised," Senator Parkman said "I say that because a degree of percentage is attached to the bill but I may think differently after Mr. Goodwin speaks." He referred to Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the finance commission.

Representative Owen Gallagher of Dorchester also favored the deductible bill, as the only form of policy which would reduce rates.

Portland Girl Is Reported Missing

Portland, Me., Oct. 29—Fearing that her ward has met with foul play, Mrs. C. S. Allen, guardian of pretty 20-year-old Mildred Hamilton, reported to the police that the girl had been missing since Sunday night, when she left their home to attend a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society at the Central Sq. Baptist Church.

Miss Hamilton was adopted by a brother of Mrs. Allen, 17 years ago, and when he died Mrs. Allen became guardian.

Pluto a Pinhead Beside "Mr. P"

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Prediction of a giant planet far outside the present limits of the solar system was received today from Prof. William H. Pickering, internationally known astronomer, at the Mandeville, Jamaica, private observatory.

Pickering, a Harvard scientist, is one of the two astronomers who predicted the existence and position of Pluto, the new "Planet X," discovered two years ago. He calls the new unknown Planet P.

This planet he estimates as the third most massive of the Sun's family, surpassed only by Jupiter, which is about twice its size, and Saturn. His computations show its diameter at 44,000 miles, more than five times that of the Earth.

It's distance from the sun appears to range from 5000 million miles to 9000 million. Its elliptical orbit accounts for the variations in distance.

"Planet P" takes a computed 656 years to make one circuit around the sun. It is so big, Prof. Pickering says, that when telescopes locate the planet it will show a clearly defined disc. Pluto, about the earth's size, and but half as far from the sun as the calculated position of 'Planet P,' shows only a point of light in the largest telescope.

Girl's Attacker Is Held in $2500 Bail

Plymouth, Oct. 29—Antone Gomes, 31, negro, arraigned before Judge Briggs today on a charge of attempted attack on Alice Cushman, 23, of Elm st., pleaded guilty and was held in $2500 for the Superior Court.

The attempted attack occurred in a lonely lane off Pond st., Kingston, as the girl was returning from her employment at the Turgerson cranberry bog. She battled her assailant, who fled when Superintendent of Streets Warren Nickerson of Kingston responded to the girl's screams.

Smith to Lead Great Drive for Jobs Fund

New York, Oct. 29 (INS)—In command of 15,000 workers, former Governor Alfred E. Smith will lead a house to house canvass of the city for contributions to the more than $12,000,000 fund sought by the emergency unemployment relief committee.

The drive will begin November 16 and last 10 days. Three banks have donated $100,000 each, two-thirds more than they gave last year.

LAMONT URGES ACTION ON REPARATIONS

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Thomas W. Lamont of the firm of J. P. Morgan Co., writing in the Saturday Review of Literature today, calls upon Germany to take the initiative for a direct readjustment with France on the reparation problem.

It is not now a matter for America to urge, said Lamont, who was a member of the committee of experts who drew up the Young plan. Germany, he said, should not expect President Hoover to save the situation for them.

The financier advised Germany to stop agitating for revision of the Versailles treaty, expressing the opinion that the French will be found to be not "unreasonable" concerning any revision that may be justified, provided it comes about through "orderly processes."

"We may say," he wrote, "that for 12 years, ever since 1919, the American financial or investment community has been carrying altogether too much of this reparation burden, and has thus made it easier for the creditor powers to avoid seeking a really final solution of the reparations question."

American people he said, cannot be expected to continue lending money to Germany to pay reparation. Some settlement on a realistic basis, he thought, has now become essential.

MOSCOW SEES 'WAR DANGER'

By KENDALL FOSS

International News Correspondent

Moscow, Oct. 29 (INS)—The Conservative election victory in Great Britain has sharpened the world economic crisis and "intensified the danger of war," the semi-official Soviet newspaper Izvestia declared in an editorial today.

"Labor," Izvestia said, "has gathered the fruits of the policy it followed while in power. It showed it had no different policy than that of the Conservatives.

"The historical significance of the Conservative victory is it was won under the banner of protectionism. England has left the arena of free trade, thus strengthening protectionism throughout the world, sharpening the crisis and intensifying the danger of war.

"Defeat of the Laborites in Britain means defeat of the whole policy of the second internationale.

"It was not a victory over Socialism, but over the petty bourgeoisie masquerading as Socialism."

BANK ACCOUNTS TO BE EXPOSED

New York, Oct. 29 (INS)—The Hofstadter legislative committee, which has been investigating the political life of New York City, added to the discomfort of leaders when the committee issued subpoenas for transcripts of the bank accounts of 150 Democratic leaders.

When bank accounts are found to be far in excess of the earnings of the leaders, most of whom hold city positions, subpoenas will be issued and they will be invited to explain the discrepancies.

A witness testified that 14 men who had registered as living at the Hotel Nassau had never spent a night there. They had registered as salesmen, chauffeurs and mechanics, but none of the names appeared on his hotel register.

Easy to Be a Hero Says Stefansson; Just Be Quiet

Portland, Me., Oct. 29 (AP)—Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, told the Maine Teachers' Association today that "many Polar explorers are willing to be heroes, especially when they do not have to tell any fibs to attain that rating."

The explorer said all he had to do to become a hero was to be reticent, and refrain from boasting.

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills — a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.

ENDS ASTHMA AGONY OF 6 YRS. IN 24 HOURS

New Prescription Works Wonders Trial Supply Sent FREE

"For 6 years I suffered the terrible tortures of asthma, gasping, strangling, choking, coughing and wheezing. Tried everything, but only temporary relief.

"Then a new prescription came into my hands. It stopped all choking and gasping almost instantly. Within 24 hours I could lie down and sleep in comfort all night long. It was really astonishing how soon I got well and I haven't had one attack since. My recovery was so complete that I had no trouble getting a $10,000 life insurance policy. The doctor couldn't find a trace of asthma.

"If you suffer in a similar way this new prescription should quickly end your asthma tortures as it did mine. Try it. I will gladly send you a generous trial supply FREE. Write today to O. W. Dean, 157-A Dean Bldg., Benton Harbor, Mich."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Woman Hurt in Fall Near E. Boston Crash

A woman was injured when two trucks, in collision at Cottage and Maverick sts., East Boston, skidded into an electric light pole. The victim, Mrs. Jennie Maznione of 99 Cottage st., started to run but fell on the wet sidewalk, suffering contusions to legs and hands. She was sent home.

One truck, loaded with filling for Boston Airport, was driven by John J. Duffy of 203 Princeton st. The other was operated by Arthur T. Slayter of Poplar st., Roslindale.

College Apologizes to Rival for a Slur

Lexington, Va., Oct. 29 (AP)—Washington & Lee University officials said today a telegram of apology was sent to the University of Virginia, after Ring-Tum-Phi, student newspaper, appeared Friday with the caption "To Hell With Virginia." The issue came out on the day before the annual football game between the two universities.

Drummer Who Hit King Dies in Canada

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 29—James P. Delph, who once hit King Edward with a drumstick when the King was the Prince of Wales, is dead. Delph was a drummer boy in the Canadian Rifles. Some sailors were tormenting him while he was fixing his drum. He struck out with his stick and hit the prince, who not only forgave the blow, but gave the drummer boy a sovereign.

Mary Nutting, 101, and Going Strong

Holyoke, Oct. 29 (AP)—Miss Mary E. Nutting today passed her 101st birthday in the local Home for Aged Women, where she has lived since 1917. She is a native of Deerfield and spent most of her life in Greenfield.

Miss Nutting first registered as a voter just prior to the last presidential election. She is in good health and keeps in touch with affairs by radio.

letics, who was 17 years of age. I guess that we were the nearest to each other's age of anybody there and we went together. That is, he brought me home from church and he would come up and we would go for walks in the early evening.

His name was Paul Ladeue. He was 17 and I was 14. We went together off and on, I should say, for a year and a half. He told me at the time we started going together that his mother had just died—he told me at the time we started going together:

"Ruth, I promised mother on her death bed that I would never go with a girl until—" I don't know whether he said of age or 18 years of age, but he said:

"I am sure that if mother could see you, she would be glad we are going together!"

ENTERS SANITARIUM

The year and a half I went with him our courtship was only in his holding my hand and going over on the school steps and talking. Yet, it was not puppy-love. We were crazy enough about each other to go without our lunches so that we could stay in the auditorium and talk.

The theological seminary was at Greenville, Ill.

I didn't see this boy from the time I was 16 until four years ago, after I had a breakdown with tuberculosis and was in the La Vina Sanitarium at Pasadena. Then he and his three brothers came up to see me one Sunday in company with my brother, Burton McKinell.

Paul remarked at that time that he had never known of a courtship of two kids that was any sweeter than ours.

I went with very few fellows as a matter of fact.

After going with Paul, I went with a boy by the name of Roy eries, a young law student, who was exceptionally brilliant and prominent in athletics.

I think he is now practicing law in St. Louis, Mo.

CHEERED IN JAIL

I want to go back to my first love, Paul, for a minute. In the midst of my bitter lot here in jail, when everything is so dark, I was happy to receive a telephone message. The message said that Paul Ladeue was very, very sorry for all that has happened and wanted to know if there was anything he could do for me. He is married now but I have never met his wife.

My parents could not keep me in the theological seminary because of the high tuition, and at the age of 16 I entered the public high school at Olney, Ill.

Shortly after this, an incident occurred that may have laid some foundation in the development of my present dilemma. It had to do with a girl I disliked very much. . .

I started to go with a boy by the name of Raymond Cullison. This caused quite a bit of jealousy from the girl there. She was quite fond of him. We just split up. There was no quarrel about it; just like couples quit going together and he started going with her. I started going with her cousin, Frank Hull. This was 10 years ago. He had been overseas and he used to tell me stories about France and to a girl of 16, it was all very romantic.

We really became acquainted while I was gathering geological specimens. He used to help me catch butterflies

I thought a great deal of him, but he decided he liked my girl friend better and started going with her. For a while this was all right with me until his cousin began twitting me about it.

He would say:

"Oho! Beulah has taken him away from you. Hasn't she?"

He kept on twitting me about it. Finally I went to him and said:

"Frank, I don't care about you going with Beulah but I don't want to be tormented about it."

I could not stand the situation and one day I said to him:

"Frank if you don't quit going with Beulah at least until I go back to school I am going to charge you with attacking me."

He laughed at me because our love making had not gone very far. He laughed at me and said:

"All right, kid, hop to it," or something like that, not thinking I would.

Finally, because he dared me, I wrote him a note and hid it. I hid it in a clock. My parents found it. I don't think anything would have happened had I not written him that note. Then my father summoned him. The boy insisted he had never touched me. I think that if he were confronted now with the story, he will say the same thing for Frank was always very, very honest.

I left the place and went out in the country into seclusion and I wrote the fellow that I had a baby. They have printed stories that I was found nude in a hay-loft but that is untrue. It was a barn but I was not naked—I had a lot of things on. I distinctly remember a green sweater and plenty of clothes.

(To Be Continued)

HINDENBURG IN NEW APPEAL

Berlin, Oct. 29 (AP)—For the third time since he became head of the Republic, President Von Hindenburg departed from his customary reserve today to address an almost fatherly appeal to the new economic advisory council at its first session.

Help from abroad, he told the council, must be predicated upon the union of divergent factions at home.

"I expect," he said, "that you will be animated by an inflexible will to ward off from our people whatever can be warded off by Germany's own strength.

"None of you will fail to realize to what extent Germany's situation is determined by world political and economic considerations. These constitute the great tasks of Germany's foreign policy."

GIRLS IN BOXING BOUT RAIDED

Washington, Pa., Oct. 29 (AP)—A boxing bout in an Avella dance-hall, with two young women as the principals, ended in tears early today, when state police, county detectives and constables raided the place and hustled the boxers and eight others before a justice of the peace and thence to the county jail.

A crowd of more than 300 men, who were cheering lustily when the officers arrived, fled through windows and doors.

WHO HAS A JOB FOR THIS MAN?

A rugged young man, 28 years old, walked into the office of the Boston Evening American today and asked for help in finding a job.

His wife accompanied him—a slip of a girl who expects her second baby soon. They spoke very quietly of their distress of many months—of his attempts to find work as a chauffeur, painter, laborer—anything.

He's an American youth and, despite his desperate circumstances, he retains a touch of pride that prevents him from seeking help at the public welfare office.

"I'd rather work, even though it might be only a few hours a day," he says. "Things have been pretty bad all summer, but now we are in danger of being evicted from our home in Dorchester.

The young man has references from the Commonwealth as a chauffeur, but he'll do anything.

Anyone wishing to give him work may write the City Editor of the Boston Evening American.

JUST ANOTHER BOSTON GATHERING IN OUR GREAT Garden with a more than typical Boston crowd. Not much excitement until the Irish Free State team tore around the ring, taking everything with them, including the enthusiasm of the mob—though, of course, OUR BEST PEOPLE couldn't show much of that. It may be the depression, but flat heels were much in evidence.

MRS. WILLIAM COX

Consider our noble police force—how they show—they toil not, neither do they spin, but SOLOMON in all his glory could not ride a horse like one of these! "Judged for conformation, ability to go at a FLAT-FOOTED WALK—to back promptly and general handiness." Perhaps it is fortunate some of our lady riders, as well as those in the audience, were not judged for these qualities, by these standards.

* * *

We are sure the Ringmaster will have chapped lips from blowing that nasty little horn when an excited horse and a perspiring rider made a fault or two, to show them the gate, and that the crowd will have laryngitis, judging from the shouts, oooohs and whistles that greeted some of the excellent performances. However, our blue ribbons go to the red-jerseyed flunkeys (who, by the way, seemed to be doing all the work) for their execution of military maneuvers, which rivalled even those of various army teams. Many a gray-haired matron from Beacon Hill was thrilled as she focused through her lorgnette on these Ben Hurs dashing around the arena.

* * *

Miss Dorothy Preston in Party

FROM THE DISTANCE WE VIEWED, THROUGH OUR lorgnette, charming Miss Dorothy Preston, surrounded by a party of friends in her mother's box, though we did not have the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Cutler herself. In the next box were Miss Jane Brown, escorted most competently by Mr. Walter Holbrook, that squire of so many maidens.

* * *

MRS. CHANNING WELLS was again in evidence accompanied by Mr. Arnold Scott, her daughter, the attractive Miss Elizabeth, and a friend. The Bancrofts had the spotlight, as usual, and as is fitting, Miss Jane only between classes. The Harness Ponies in Threes was quite a family affair for them, six of their smart little hackneys being entered, and won by Mrs. Cox (Jessie Bancroft), with a close second for her mother.

Jane Bancroft

POPULAR MISS MARY McELWAIN on her gray mare, with the delightful name of Killarney Rose, showed herself most proficient in the art of taking the jumps, and great applause greeted her performance.

* * *

THAT GRAND OLD CLAN OF the Amalgamated Almys and Adies were present in full force, Mrs. Bob Almy capturing ribbons with the best of them. The two adorably chubby offsprings were, of course, where all good children should be at that hour, but we would be willing to wager on seeing them brought religiously every afternoon, even to being dragged from the clutches of a conscientious teacher.

ENOUGH OF THE HORSE Show—for us, at least, though more power to you if you can attend each and every day with the same amount of enthusiasm. Believe it or not, there ARE other things happening, even if this is Boston.

DR. AND MRS. JOSEPH H. PRATT are entertaining the debs at a luncheon today at their home in Brookline, in honor of their charming daughter, Rosamond. She is the second daughter, and another yet to come, and it would seem that, as in many cases, things get better and better as they roll along.

* * *

LATER IN THE AFTERNOON they will all adjourn to that exclusive (as we mentioned the other day) Chilton Club for the tea that Mrs. Henry Bainbridge is giving for her granddaughter, Miss Martha Chapin. Such a shame that the dance which this deb's attractive parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chapin of Brookline, were to have had to be cancelled, but those things do happen.

Catholics Will Hear Dr. Sheen

Dr. Fulton Sheen is to lecture in the Hotel Statler next Sunday at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs.

Dr. Sheen is acknowledged to be a scholar and teacher of international prominence. He has enjoyed a distinguished academic career having studied at the Universities of Rome, Washington, Paris and Louvain.

The general chairman for the lecture is Leamon F. Donahue of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is assisted by Helen Grady of Simmons, as general secretary. The chairmen of the various committees include: Virginia Grimes, Wellesley, printing; Rosaria Williams, Emerson, tickets; Mary Gion, Wellesley, publicity; Patricia McCulloch, St. Cecilia's, music, and Margaret Kennedy, Framingham Normal, hotel.

Husband Is Saved From Death by Wife

After her husband had slashed his throat in an attempt at suicide, late last night, Mrs. Esther Wickwire, of Eliot st., Milton, bandaged his throat, bundled him into an automobile and raced death to the Boston City Hospital. On arrival at City Hospital, doctors found that the man, Frederick G. Wickwire, 46, was bleeding from a severed jugular vein.

Sponsors for Lectures

Dr. Sarah Ellen Palmer, who gives illustrated lectures on her travels, is back again this fall, to speak every Wednesday in November in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Sponsoring these lectures are Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, Mrs. Thomas Claflin, Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. Edwin Dudley Dodge, Mrs. George S. Selfridge, Mrs. C. Atwater Mason and Miss Alice Brown.

The first talk will be on November 11, at 11 o'clock, when Miss Palmer will speak of her travels up and down the Dalmatian Coast, and a week later, the internationally famous Edward Tuck collection of 18th century art will be the subject of her second lecture.

Dr. Palmer has just returned from a trip abroad and brings with her some especially beautiful lantern slides to illustrate her talks.

Bert Wheeler Pays $10 for Stale Joke

Los Angeles, Oct. 29—It cost Bert Wheeler of the movie comedy team of Wheeler and Woolsey $10 to put on a dialogue with Municipal Judge Alfred Paonessa. Wheeler was up for speeding.

"How many times have you appeared in this court?" the judge said. "I thought you were keeping score," Wheeler countered. "Ten dollars or two days and if you think that's a joke, let's hear you laugh."

Wheeler paid.

School Nurses Have Bridge Saturday

The 15th annual bridge-whist party by the Boston public school nurses to raise funds to assist them in their work with needy children will be given Saturday in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler at 2 p. m.

Miss Helen F. McCaffrey, supervising nurse, is general chairman, assisted by Helen M. Riley, Mary A. Clifford, Anna E. Donovan, Mary V. Flynn, Mary C. Mullaney, Agnes C. Murphy and Catherine F. O'Toole.

Junior Leaguer Weds Austin Smith

Wearing a gown of cream velvet, fashioned on simple lines, a veil of old family lace forming the cap and covering the long train, and carrying a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies, Miss Eleanor Frothingham exchanges marriage vows with Mr. Austin Smith this afternoon at a 2 o'clock ceremony in the Leslie Lindsay Memorial Chapel of Emmanuel Church. The Rev. Benjamin M. Washburn, rector, officiates and a reception follows immediately at the Ritz-Carlton.

In Bridal Party

Miss Frothingham, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Frothingham of Chestnut st., has as her matron of honor Madame Edouard Legnait, of Brussels, Belgium, and as her maid of honor, Miss Anne C. Williams of Brookline. Their dresses are of turquoise blue crepe with matching hats, and they are carrying a mixed bouquet of pink roses and bouvadia.

The six bridesmaids' gowns are made on similar lines, but are of peach colored crepe, also with hats to match and the same kind of flowers. They are Miss Josephine and Miss Janet Smith of New York, sisters of the bridegroom; Miss Rebecca Thomas, Miss Esther Sears, Miss Katherine Powers and Miss Louise Slocum, all of Boston.

The bride is a graduate of the Winsor School, as well as of Radcliffe College, where she completed her course this summer. She made her debut during the 1925-26 season and is a member of the Junior League.

Usher Group

Mr. Smith, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Austin Smith of New York, has as his best man Mr. Stephen C. Millett, Jr., of New York, and six of his friends are seating the guests: the Messrs. Edward Burling, Jr., and Wallace A. Russell, both of New York; Richard Olney, Jr., Frederick M. Roberts, Robert M. Morse, all of Boston, and C. Chauncey Gray of Dedham.

The bridegroom is a Harvard graduate, with the class of '29, and his clubs include the Phoenix-Sk and the Speakers'.

When Miss Frothingham leaves as Mrs. Smith on their wedding trip she will wear an ensemble of beige and dark brown. Her mother is being gowned for the wedding in a dress of black crepe with touches of pale blue.

It has not been definitely decided yet as to where they will live when they return, though it will probably be in New York.

Henry J. Fuller, one of the defendant directors of the Gillette Safety Razor Co., under cross-examination at the hearing of the [illegible] at the hearing of the [illegible] that [illegible] he read the demands made by minority stockholders for information in the newspapers before they were formally made.

Atty. Edward F. McClennen, counsel for Frank J. Fahey, one of the defendant directors, began cross-examination of Fuller after Judge [illegible] M. [illegible] sitting as master, ruled that a defense counsel shall be permitted to cross-examine before Atty. William G. Thompson, minority stockholders' counsel, [illegible] his [illegible] examination.

RECORDS OF MEETINGS.

[illegible] Atty. Damon E. Hall and Thompson asking for information concerning the old Gillette [illegible] and demanding the [illegible] the [illegible] was written on October 17 evidence showed.

Records of a directors' meeting of October [illegible] were then introduced by Atty. McClennen [illegible] that Atty. Roberts [illegible] to give the information.

RECALLS ONLY ONE.

Fuller stated that he had no recollection of Dodge stating what the claims of the minority stockholders were. He [illegible] he could not recall whether he had talked with other directors [illegible] before October 21 with the exception of John E. Aldred.

A record of a directors' meeting of October [illegible] was read, and Fuller W. [illegible], one of the directors, was shown to have stated that [illegible] to stockholders had [illegible] after [illegible] In [illegible] that fact Fuller [illegible] and it did not seem [illegible] to take any action in the matter other than to instruct counsel for the old Gillette company to appear before the court when the matter was heard.

JEWISH DRIVE TOTAL $349,137

New contributions totaling $[illegible] were announced by the Associated Jewish Philanthropies at a luncheon at [illegible] headquarters, 36 Summer st. today making a total of $349,137 in the drive for [illegible].

Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, deputy health commissioner, presided. Eddie Casey, head coach of the Harvard football team, was the principal speaker, comparing the drive to the hard-fought Harvard-Army game which the Crimson finally won 14 to 13.

"Sometimes the prospects for reaching the goal look good and sometimes bad, but you've got to continue down the stretch with everyone putting in his best efforts," he said.

Wilinski announced that of 118 newsboys approached by workers so far all had made contributions. He read several testimonial letters, including one from a 13-year-old boy which attracted [illegible] Fred [illegible] of 82 [illegible] st. Winthrop wrote as follows:

"Dear Sir: A few nights ago I listened over the radio and heard your appeal for the needy Jews. I am a boy of 13 years and as I heard the appeal I went out and I caddied, making one dollar. I am enclosing the dollar for the appeal."

In his opening remarks Dr. Wilinsky said:

The lawyers' team, of which Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman is captain, reported the largest total for the day with $6518 in new contributions. The shoe and leather team came next with $5392 additional.

Other teams reporting substantial increases were: Food, $2160; house furnishings, $1605; jewelry, $1449; amusements, $1172; real estate, $1160; insurance, $724; clothing, $650; department stores, $540.

EDISON RUBBER FIRM FORMED

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison's last invention—synthetic rubber—has been incorporated into a company in which his two best friends, Harvey Firestone and Henry Ford, and Edison's six children are partners.

Charles Edison revealed that a firm has been organized under the name of Edison Botanic Company to carry on the rubber interests left by the late inventor.

Shortly before his death Edison's experiments in search of synthetic rubber were crowned with success through the production of a satisfactory duplicate from the goldenrod plant.

Charles Edison said today that under present market conditions it would be too expensive to produce synthetic rubber but pointed out that in time of war when the natural supply would be cut off the invention would prove extremely valuable.

He said that further experiments will be conducted by the company to develop by-products which may have a more immediate value.

SIX-HOUR DAY IS ONLY WAY, SAYS LAFONTAINE

[illegible]

I have been reading the editorials of William Randolph Hearst on the six-hour day and in my opinion it offers the only solution for the great unemployment problem, Lafontaine said.

It is my opinion that so long as labor is displaced by labor-saving devices, the hours of work must be reduced in accordance with the increased power of labor through the use of such devices in order to keep the workers continually employed.

I hope that those who oppose the six-hour day will read the editorials and become convinced that it is the solution of the problem that confronts us.

Another step in the right direction would be the raising of the school age from 14 to 16 as a means of keeping off the labor market and taking out of industry a considerable number of young workers who frequently displace middle-aged workers.

The compulsory school attendance law at present reads that children from 7 to 14 years shall attend school. They are permitted to leave at 14, providing they have passed the requirements of the sixth grade.

STIMSON SEEKS "SHOWDOWN"

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP).—The American government is seeking full publication of notes sent to Japan and China calling attention to their obligations under the Kellogg-Briand pact to renounce war and the replies received.

Secretary Stimson has instructed Prentiss B. Gilbert, consul general at Geneva, to request authorization to make them public. The inquiry is directed at Germany, Spain, France, Great Britain and Italy. Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France, president of the council of the League of Nations, upon whose initiative the five nations asked the United States and other signatories to follow their example in dispatching the notes to Japan and China.

At the time the American note was sent off [illegible] said they had no objections to making public the text, but were refraining because the five countries which took the initiative had not chosen to do so.

POLLOCK'S MISTAKE IS IN CLOSING EYES TO VIRTUE OF OTHERS

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ROBERT E. ROGERS

MR CHANNING POLLOCK is making one of his always welcome visits to Boston. His visit is, perhaps, not unconnected with a new play of his which is coming here shortly. But he is welcome, all the same. As his own press agent, he does not rely on photographs of pretty girls in undress, on intimate biographies of his actors, on his own tastes in food and neckties. He sticks to essentials—why his own plays are good and why most of the other plays in America today are pretty bad. And that is exactly as it should be!

You will enjoy hearing Mr. Pollock if you have an opportunity. He is a two-fisted, upstanding, robust speaker, with plenty of the power that holds an audience, a vigorous sense of humor, and, of course, a sense of the dramatic. He is in earnest every minute of the time and he never for a moment leaves you in doubt as to what he thinks. His qualities are exactly the qualities of a successful political spell-binder or, better, a successful evangelist.

* * *

Keep Home Drama Fires Burning

That, I think, is the exact word. Mr. Pollock is our chief evangelist in the theater. He follows close upon Mrs. McPherson's heels. She was here to save our souls spiritually. Mr. Pollock is here to save our souls dramatically.

I remember, some years ago, presiding at a meeting of the Drama League of Boston at which Mr. Pollock spoke. This time he was defending "The Fool," or perhaps "The Enemy," from the condescension of the critics, who had found it undoubtedly successful but a bit elementary. He paid his usual tributes to the inanity, vacuity, perversion and degeneracy of the imported European drama. As always a strong Home Market Club man in drama, he urged us to patronize the plays in the good old American tradition, simple, unsophisticated, sinless, optimistic. He may even have mentioned "The Fool" as an example of such drama.

Before he went I announced that for the rest of the evening the League would listen to a lecture and reading of Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," that complex Italian piece which at that time was fluttering the dovecotes of the Intellectuals. I won't go so far as to say that Mr. Pollock was quenched by that announcement. I don't believe you could quench him with a cloudburst. But it was certainly in sorrow, if not in anger, that he took his departure.

At present in Boston Mr. Pollock is attacking the "false doctrine of sophistication" in the plays and novels of today. He believes that they are "shelving and debunking" the high ideals upon which civilization is based. We are all trying to be smart, trying to live up to this false level of sophistication. We join certain cliques of intelligenzia and set up idols of hokum. And so on.

* * *

Pollock's One Big Mistake

The trouble with Mr. Pollock, of course, is that he does not define and distinguish. He lumps all modern drama—except his own—in one indistinguishable anathema. So far as the ultra-naturalism of the recent stage is concerned he can make an excellent case. As to the plays of the Broadway night clubs, of polite vice and perversion, of racketeering and the like, he has a clear case. They bear no defense. It may almost be said that they need no attack.

Mr. Pollock's idea is that the great heart of the people wants the plain and simple plays of old-fashioned ideals. Undoubtedly it does. The enormous success of "The Fool," the considerable success of "The Enemy" and the success of "The House Beautiful," that new allegorical piece showing in symbols the fight which an average man in an average family makes for decency and honesty and faithfulness—these show perfectly clearly that when this sort of thing is competently and interestingly done the public will support it. That, Mr. Pollock believes, shows that the best drama is essentially democratic and popular, very simple and appealing in its idea and technic.

But the fact remains that the great heart of the people also supports enormously plays which are, to Mr. Pollock's mind, sophisticated, anti-idealistic and unhealthy. The astonishing popular success of O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" is one of the marvels of the modern theater, contrary to all expert expectation and prediction. Judging from what the critics have said about the new trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra," it may repeat the other's success. "Street Scene" did not exactly drip with "Sweetness and Light," but it was an enormous popular success. Both in New York and on tour there are always large audiences to be found for the Theater Guild's undeniably intellectual and sophisticated (and even European) offerings. Shaw and Galsworthy, those least unsophisticated of writers, have always had large popular followings in America.

All of which means that either the great heart of America is less sound than Mr. Pollock thinks it is—or that the great mind of America is considerably less naive and simple and elementary than Mr. Pollock hopes it is. For Mr. Pollock's plays are deliberately (as well as successfully) primers in drama, life in capital letters and words of one syllable, the A-B-Cs of literature. Indeed, although "hokum" is the favorite word with Mr. Pollock for all that school of drama which he honestly despises and probably misunderstands, that very word has sometimes been applied by experienced critics to the theatrical devices by which Mr. Pollock dramatizes his ideas.

Some great literature is democratic, but not all. Only the simpler plays of Shakespeare are really popular. The greatest literature is probably not democratic at all, that is, it expresses itself in symbols and ideas beyond the comprehension and sympathy of the crowd. Our theater-going public in America has in the past decade, become pretty sophisticated in all senses of the word, the good as well as the bad. People do not see life in terms as simple as their fathers did. They look, therefore, to see it treated more complexly in the theater.

Mr. Pollock is perfectly justified in preferring his own type of play. But he does it and himself no service in attacking most of modern literature without discrimination. There are many sophisticated, modern writers from whom he can learn much, if he will, both as a dramatist and as an ethical teacher.

But Mr. Pollock is honest, sincere, in earnest, a stout champion of his ideals. His plays have given great pleasure to hundreds of thousands. Mr. Pollock and "The House Beautiful" are worthy of your support.

CAN THE RICH ACCEPT THE SWEET CHARITY OF THE POOR?

By GILBERT SELDES

I SUGGEST THAT THE RICH have subsisted [illegible] on the [illegible] of the poor. I suggest further that awareness of this [illegible] (which is not a paradox) and action based on it, would be one of the surest ways of avoiding the class-struggle of which all the disasters of Europe are a symptom, which we all hope to escape, and about which we are doing almost nothing except [illegible] the [illegible] to subsist for a [illegible] of the rich.

GILBERT SELDES

Anti-Revolution

I am against revolution. Revolution has nothing sacred in itself, although sometimes a revolution has been desirable [illegible] only an expensive way of getting something done, and [illegible] frequently [illegible] ends, destroying in the process much of the thing it wishes to preserve. In pure theory every revolution is avoidable; in pure theory King George III could have handed us our freedom and the Czar could have abdicated as other monarchs have. In practice, two things are against violence in [illegible]. One, a probability, is that intelligence may still exist [illegible] to prevent it, and two, a certainty, the structure of the [illegible] is so complex and so delicate that it might be irreplaceably [illegible] destroyed.

The Generous Poor

[illegible] I feel this way, it seems only right to note that while [illegible] charity of the prosperous has been sufficiently [illegible] in [illegible] story, the benevolence of the poor has been neglected. [illegible] is that its form has not been visible; although they [illegible] good food and clean milk and nice clothes to the well-[illegible] the unmoneyed ones have had the exquisite tact to keep their [illegible], and secret. Only pedantic economists, grubbing [illegible] the surface of statistics, have discovered that some-[illegible] been getting a rake-off in the form of bonuses and excess [illegible] which correct but [illegible] terms the charity of [illegible] concealed.

When a hundred thousand shares have [illegible] been [illegible] five hundred thousand, and the same dividend has [illegible] on the five, a gift has been made. It seemed, at the [illegible], only the natural result of good planning, [illegible] work, [illegible] energy and all the [illegible]. But when, a few years later, it appeared that the worker [illegible] a tendency [illegible] raise in salary, was to get [illegible] and that no one had made the slightest arrange-[illegible] the entire [illegible].

Who Has Given Most?

[illegible] Men who have worked [illegible] and who have lived [illegible] the freedom and happi-[illegible] their jobs or [illegible] these men have [illegible] they each their [illegible].

Doles to the Rich

I [illegible] an employer and an employe. I find that I have [illegible] as an employer and, I suppose, fairly [illegible] spurn my justice and call [illegible] My employers [illegible] in their dealings with me and will [illegible] they got. I [illegible] one [illegible] gets an extra [illegible]. It seems to me, too, that [illegible] of the great American fortunes were originally [illegible] and cruelty. It is only in the vast [illegible] that I see the kindly [illegible] giving a dole to [illegible].

A Substitute for Charity

[illegible] expect now? Gratitude? A return of [illegible]. They will do for the [illegible] want more. Repentance, [illegible]. Both are rather dramatic, they [illegible] 10 years of need to start [illegible] system which may be [illegible] necessarily the [illegible] for America. We have [illegible] our habits of [illegible] been any [illegible] but we are supposed to [illegible]. Obviously what we want is an end of [illegible] system, the system which makes charity necessary.

No More Fear

It is not [illegible] system in which the man [illegible] works is paid so much that he can live like a human being, [illegible] means with free time and something left of his body and mind to enjoy leisure. And the first requisite in such a system is that fear shall be driven out. I do not mean that permanent [illegible] shall be guaranteed [illegible] that men who work [illegible] and loyally shall not [illegible] every [illegible] day, for fear the shop will shut down. These things are too hard to imagine if we once get the idea clearly in mind that the people who work in a factory are at least as essential [illegible] the machinery on which they work.

How Much Profit?

There lies at the other end the problem of profit. I am not an economist and not a psychologist; I cannot give the exact percentage of profit necessary to induce financiers to invest money or inventors to invest brain-power. I think that a little less than 200 per cent a year might be enough. Especially if the financiers remembered that every cent less in profit was that much off the dole which they might be receiving from the poor.

We used to hear—we still do hear—a great deal about people who are too proud to receive charity. They exist, these stalwart and admirable ones who want to earn whatever they receive and will not take a penny more. We have always assumed they exist only among the poor. Is it possible the rich are not so proud?

LOST BOY FOUND SLEEPING IN HENHOUSE

Robert Day, 9, of Milton, Out Too Late, Was Afraid to Go to Home

Asleep in a play hut near his home, nine-year-old Robert Day, of Milton, object of an all-night search by police and firemen, was found cold and bedraggled but safe and sound shortly after 10 o'clock this morning.

The lad, who had been missing from his home at 95 Pagoda st. [illegible] explained that he had sought shelter in the hut, known to the boys of the neighborhood as the "Sunrise Club," because he had stayed out later than usual and was afraid to go home.

It was while the hunt was going on with increased vigor that two [illegible] bethought themselves to have a peek at the "Sunrise Club," a converted chicken [illegible] a [illegible] window.

Awakened and hustled to his home two blocks away, the boy was met with a tearful [illegible] mother and, after the first greeting, a sound lecture from his father, Peter, an electrician, who had headed the search.

Robert said he went out last night to meet his father, who usually returns home at 8 o'clock, but who was delayed last night until after 10. When the elder Day failed to appear, the boy said, he continued his watch for him until it was so late he feared to go back to the house.

SAVANT LOSES AUTO APPEAL

Proof to the satisfaction of Public Works Commissioner Frank E. Lyman that he had been "trapped" for a motor violation at a signal light in Medford that did not conform with the State time code failed to win back for Prof. Henry L. Alvord of Northeastern University his automobile license, which had been suspended for five days.

Prof. Alvord's license was suspended by Registrar Ryan on October 26 for five days.

Appealing from the registrar's decision, Prof. Alvord argued that the State requires that at least [illegible] seconds should elapse between changes in signals. He [illegible] that the light at Middlesex [illegible] Medford, only allowed one and one half seconds between changes.

In making his finding today, Lyman admonished Registrar [illegible] that his inspectors should have reported the condition of the [illegible] rather than penalize Prof. Alvord. He refused, however, to [illegible] the action of Registrar Ryan in suspending the professor's license.

Commenting on the outcome of his appeal Prof. Alford said:

"Mr. Ryan has the powers of Mussolini. He is judge, jury, witness and executioner of the motorists."

Dance Tonight for Little Flower Home

In aid of the Home of the Little Flower Orphanage the second annual charity dance will be held tonight in Catholic Hall, Worcester [illegible] corner of Washington st. [illegible].

The committee for the dance includes [illegible] McInnes, Frances Ross, Ellen Liment, Gertrude Dennis, Kay Rimovitz, James Gibbons, Joseph Larkin, Bob Allen and Gertrude Anderson.

BOY BACK FROM A NIGHT AT THE CLUB

HE WAS AFRAID, THAT'S ALL

Robert Day, 9, kept Milton on edge all night because he was "lost." But he wasn't, he tells his mother. He stayed out so late he got scared and went to a play hut and slept there all night.

ENTRANCE TO "SUNRISE CLUB"

This is where Robert spent the night—the "Sunrise Club." It was over a henhouse, but the boys converted it. Having no phone, Robert couldn't call up his home and tell his parents not to worry. (Staff photo.)

TOT STRANGLES IN HIGH-CHAIR

Mrs. Marion Caraher, the mother, had strapped her in the chair and left the room. In a few minutes she [illegible] the baby hanging with the strap around her neck.

Football Kicks Ma and Pa Into Court, But Judge Scores

An argument over whether their young son should play football took Mr. and Mrs. James P. Shea, Magnolia rd., Swampscott, into Lynn District Court today, where the former was given a suspended sentence of 20 days in the House of Correction on charges of beating her.

Shea, a retired druggist, formerly prominent in Lynn, opposed football for his son, a grammar school student, he said, while Mrs. Shea approved of the boy playing.

HE'LL STICK TO KITTENS

John Gray, 3, of Sheridan st., Lynn, is convinced that his kitten is the best kind of a pet after all. John accidentally stepped on a monkey's paw recently and was bitten. Special precautions were taken to see that no serious illness resulted. (Staff photo.)

ANSWERS LYONS IN DORCHESTER SCHOOL FIGHT

Money Goes to Charity if It Can Be Shown Accused Has Any Interest

A $500 answer to charges of "land grabbing" in connection with the row over a site for the Dorchester girls' high school was posted today by W. J. Paul, Dorchester real estate man.

Dr. Joseph V. Lyons, school committee member, appeared at the "town meeting" in Dorchester Monday night and charged that Paul, who was acting as [illegible] officer, was financially interested in having a site at Bowdoin st. and Geneva ave. substituted for the school committee's site at Grove Hall.

OFFER TO CHARITY

Paul today signed a check [illegible] payable to Frank Russell, president of the Dorchester Citizens Association, to be turned over to charity if the charges are proved.

The agreement provides:

"That the $500 be turned over to the St. Vincent de Paul's society if the charges are proved that W. J. Paul owns the land standing in the names of John Clancy, Matthew Cummings and Abraham Cohen at Geneva ave. and Bowdoin st.

"Or that W. J. Paul holds a mortgage on the property, or holds a note of either party, or that any of these gentlemen are in any way indebted to W. J. Paul or would be if the land were taken by the city of Boston.

ONLY ONE AGREEMENT

"Or that W. J. Paul ever proposed any location for the new girls' high school but the ball field on the top of Ronan Park, except by compromise agreement, just as your worthy president, Frank Russell, agreed to give up advocating the Hancock yard that we might appear as a unit for a location other than Grove Hall."

The appropriation order calling for construction of the school on Wilder st., Grove Hall, which Dorchester civic associations and citizens disapprove, is now before the City Council.

LEADERS TALK OVER 'MIRACLE'

Chamber of Commerce officials and members of the Retail Trades Association are today considering Morris Gest's proposal to stage a revival of his famous production "The Miracle" in aid of the city's unemployed.

They will report on the plan to Mayor Curley at a meeting tomorrow, which will be attended by [illegible].

Tentative plans were [illegible] by Gest at a luncheon given by the Mayor at which he proposed to give all the profits of the production to the [illegible] welfare fund.

He [illegible] that he wanted nothing for his services and that he was prompted to stage the mammoth production in Boston because of the sentiment he holds for the city where, as an immigrant boy, he sold newspapers and [illegible].

Explaining the costs of staging "The Miracle," Gest said that the expenses would amount to $[illegible] per week and that the huge cast would provide work for nearly 1000 jobless men and women.

He outlined plans for drawing more than 200,000 spectators to the Boston Garden for the daily matinees and evening performances. The regular prices for the spectacle could be reduced to less than half and [illegible] per cent by agreement with the owners, he said.

Edward A. Filene, one of the speakers at the luncheon, expressed approval of the plan and agreed to give his support.

Felix Vorenberg, president of the Retail Trades Association, and Frank Davis of the Boston Chamber of Commerce accepted the appointments of Mayor Curley to study the proposal and will report their findings to him tomorrow.

7th Jail Term for Man on One Debt

For the seventh time in 18 months, Michael O. Lucash of Charlestown, former court interpreter, was sentenced to jail today for failure to pay the same bill on an order of municipal court.

Like the latter two sentences, today's was 20 days in Charles st. jail. Four times previously Lucash served sentences of five days each.

The $194.15 judgment against Lucash was won by J. Wisowaty and has since been increased to $[illegible] by court costs.

According to the ruling today of Judge Francis J. Good, Lucash must pay the bill and costs or be sentenced again at the end of his 20 days sentence.

Talk on Russia

An open meeting of the [illegible] man's Club of Suffolk County will be held in the [illegible] South End [illegible] to protest [illegible] the Yard.

The speakers include Congressman [illegible] H. [illegible] Governor's Council [illegible] Malcolm E. Nichols, Joseph J. [illegible] chairman of the school committee, Representative Francis P. Dacey, [illegible] S. Fleming, president of the Association for Maintenance of the Boston Navy Yard, Inc.; Dr. Charles E. Mackey and Wendell P. Thore. Augustus Seaver, president of the club, will preside.

DANCE TO AID BASKET FUND

Members of Thomas J. Roberts Post 216, American Legion, of Dorchester, worked today on plans for their annual Victory Ball in aid of the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund to be held on November 10.

As was the case last year, the dance, under the auspices of the veterans, will be the first step in the drive for thousands of dollars to bring Christmas cheer into the homes of Boston's needy.

Beginning with an exhibition drill by a legion drill team, the dancing will be interrupted every 10 minutes for offerings by leading vaudeville performers.

Already several have promised that they will do their bit. Included in this group are: Dorothy Lamkin and Marion Lacrosse of Dorchester, Edna Wilson, Dot Durlea of Charlestown and Betty Galloway, also of Dorchester.

So that the tickets might be made available to all the members the Roberts Post has arranged with the following stores to handle the sale of tickets: Foster's Ticket Agency, in Macy's drug store, Hamilton drug store, Codman sq., Dorchester, and the Economy drug store, Washington st., Dorchester.

Do this for Your Child in

TWO WEEKS

How to rid any boy or girl of sluggishness or constipation and build a big appetite.

The trouble with children who will not eat is usually stasis. The symptoms are a tongue that's always coated, bad breath, poor color, dull eyes that are often a bilious yellow. No appetite, no ambition—even for play. Hard to get to sleep, hard to wake in the morning.

There's an absolute remedy for this condition. It gives listless youngsters the appetite and energies of a young animal! They eat! They gain! They keep well!

The California Treatment conquers Sluggishness

It's not the stomach, but the bowel condition that keeps children from eating. But the trouble is in the lower bowel—the colon. California fig syrup is the only "medicine" needed to stimulate the colon muscles. The very next day, your child is eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and you will see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight and spirits.

Any drugstore has the real California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Nature never made a nicer acting or nicer tasting laxative. (It is purely vegetable.) Remember California fig syrup when sickness, a cold or any upset has clogged a child's bowels.

WARNING

Even when it's something to give children, some stores will try to substitute. So be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup.

Imagine!

THE VOICE OF Broadway

By Louis Sobol

For Your Scrap Book!

This column is of no particular importance at this date, but perhaps if you clip it and shove it among your souvenirs and read it again, say, in 1951 or 1971, you'll thank me no end. The idea is simple. Merely an attempt to portray the Broadway of today. The theaters, the night clubs, the people. Not a thing in [illegible] all of [illegible] just as I [illegible] 20 or 40 years from [illegible] and compare notes.

Broadway, of course, [illegible] The [illegible] thrusts [illegible] from Battery Park to Yonkers, from the Hudson to the East River. It has its fingers in Longacre Square [illegible] Place and in Washington Heights, in Delancey Street, in the Ghetto, in Gerard Avenue [illegible] Bronx [illegible] places or people from any of these sections [illegible] They're all part of Broadway.

[illegible]

[illegible] were Broad [illegible] its celebrity [illegible] of show people [illegible] matters and the wall [illegible] Broadway [illegible]

[illegible]

I've said nothing of the racketeers, of the chiselers, of the head waiters, of the columnists, of the [illegible] of the moving picture ushers, of the booking agents and the press agents, of the hotels, of the creep joints, of the [illegible] of the phonies, of the gunmen, of the dramatic and flicker critics, of the playwrights. These, too, figure in the Broadway picture of 1931, but, after all, you can crowd only so much in a column—even in the longest Broadway column in town.

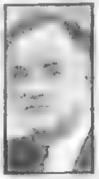
Stars may come and stars may go, but Lewis Stone goes on [illegible] superlative [illegible] in support of Helen Hayes [illegible] "The Sin of Madelon Claudet." The [illegible] American films [illegible]



Harleigh Schultz

[illegible] Films in this country must [illegible] better and better. The public demands that [illegible] steady improvement has been [illegible] pictures are [illegible] and the [illegible] of [illegible] will increase as [illegible] This must be so. After [illegible] the industry [illegible] the public demand, and good pictures mean box office and that is what the producers want to turn out.

"There was an era of novelty, or experiment, of testing the public favor. But the pendulum has swung back, as we knew it would, to basic values in the cinema. So we can expectantly predict more good pictures out of Hollywood."

Thurston on New Met Bill

Thurston, the magician, coming to the Metropolitan tomorrow for one week, says that he has been more than 30 years building up his show.

"In these thirty-odd years I have traveled to the far corners of the earth, visiting every civilized country on the globe," he says. "I am always in quest of the elusive 'something new' for my show. On my program are Oriental tricks—Hindu, Chinese, Japanese, Malayan and Egyptian. One or two items had their origin among the witch doctors of West African tribes.

"Col. Younghusband has told me that he saw the original of my 'Floating Ball' illusion in the palace of the Grand Llama of Thibet. Llamas or priests informed the explorer that so far as their own records proved, the effect dated back some 5000 years.

"Among our own Hopi Indians of the Southwest I got the idea of the 'Phantom Princess,' in which a woman floats out over the orchestra to disappear in midair, within touch of the spectator's fingertips. The Hopis, by the way, probably have the oldest magic in the world. Their priests were performing so-called miracles a thousand years before Columbus was born."

Garbo and Gable Film at Loew's Orpheum Friday

BETTY COMPSON IS GIVEN LEAD IN AIR COMEDY

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

[illegible]

Los Angeles, Oct. 29. The thrilling adventures of aviators who seek to establish a world record is the plot, briefly, of a story sold Gold Seal Pictures by one William Crouch. Dr. O. A. Peters, who organized this new company, has selected Betty Compson for the lead in this air comedy.

Louella O. Parsons

Perhaps you wonder why I comment on the plot of a story sold to a new company by an unknown author. I will tell you. My visit to various cities made me realize more than ever what an opportunity there is for the ambitious writer with ideas.

The sex and gang stories have been done to death. The copy-book imitation of successful box office pictures has resulted in innumerable flops. Not since Francis X. Bushman and Maurice Costello were the answer to every maiden's prayer has there been such an opportunity for new writers. I don't mean untrained writers, but young men and women with fresh ideas.

* * *

I was all hot and bothered when I heard that Corey Ford had changed his name to John Riddell. That was before I realized I had confused Corey Ford with Seward [illegible] and remembered John Riddell is the name under which Corey Ford writes for "Vanity Fair." I apologize. I also seem to owe Astrid Allwyn an apology. She has the second lead in "Lady With a Past" opposite Constance Bennett and she was hailed as [illegible] Bennett [illegible] to be [illegible] said an Allwyn booster. Never heard of her, was my reply. Now I have to admit she did attract my attention in "The New Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford." She was formerly under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Two well known Hollywood merchants are about to be featured in a series of one-reel novelties, called "A Bag of Tricks." These two gentleman, Max Asher and Charles Hoffman, will show how card tricks are done. Just in case you haven't heard of them, they are the owners of the Magic Shop, where many a Hollywood hostess has bought gags for dinner parties. Autographed on their walls are the names of most of the screen celebrities.

* * *

The hottest denial ever sent out on this wire came from Joan Blondell, who was reported engaged to George Barnes, well known cameraman. The story somehow came out of Hollywood and was considered important enough to rate front page space. Mr. Barnes is already married.

Joan Blondell

While the yarn was in error, Miss Blondell should be pleased to realize she is such important newspaper copy. Her next picture, "The Roar of the Crowd," by Howard Hawks and Seton Miller, and directed by Mr. Hawks, again associates her with James Cagney, Warner Brothers' favorite team.

* * *

Hollywood flashes from all the studios bring Ken Maynard back to work after his recent crackup in his plane. Carl Laemmle Jr., who has done the work of 10 men this past year, is at Palm Springs convalescing from hay fever. His father has insisted upon a complete rest before he returns to work. Lyda Roberti, the gal who was brought West by Paramount, draws the lead in "The Jazz King" by James Creelman. It will be Buddy Rogers' last for Paramount before he joins the Radio entertainers. Edmund Breese, another well known actor who yearns to play a Chinese role, will gratify his heart's desire in "The Hon. Mr. Wong."

Seen and Heard

New York is to be denied a glimpse of Clark Gable, successful screen actor. New York saw plenty of Mr. Gable when he was an obscure stage actor, but he hasn't been properly introduced to the film writers in the east since he became a top-notcher. He chooses instead of his long desired New York vacation a hunting trip. Wallace Beery, with whom Gable was to go hunting, leaves for New York and his brother [illegible] accompanies Mr. Gable. Millard Webb is seeking Clara Bow for the lead in a picture he is to direct for a British film concern. He will not start his production until the first of the year, so that Clara can finish her Sam Rork contract first. Maybe she won't even be interested. I happen to know she turned down three Broadway stage offers within two weeks time.

"Unusual Europe" will be the subject of the first of the downtown "Dream Pictures" of Branson De Cou, who comes to Tremont Temple tomorrow evening for a series of six lectures. Mr. De Cou needs no introduction to Bostonians. The "Dream Pictures" have brought superlative praise for the beauty of the striking and artistic color photography, the briskly interesting and humorous travel talk, the delightful and appropriate musical background. "Unusual Europe" will also be given on Saturday afternoon, while others of the series, "Beautiful Japan" and "Colorful Southwestern Wonderlands," will be given on Friday evening, Nov. 6; Saturday afternoon, Nov. 7, and on Friday evening, Nov. 13, and Saturday afternoon, Nov. 14.

Midnight Show at Majestic

A special midnight performance of Lew Leslie's "Rhapsody in Black," starring Ethel Waters, will be held at the Majestic Thursday, Nov. 5, the proceeds of this performance to go to the city of Boston's unemployment fund. Some time last week the cast of "Rhapsody in Black" came to Mr. Leslie and evidenced a desire to do something for the city's unemployed. It was then decided that a special midnight performance given by the company would be the best means this troupe of clever colored artists could help the city.

As an afterthought Leslie has completed arrangements to have many of the biggest stars in the city also appear that night, which promises one of the most outstanding shows this city has ever seen.

Gala Show at the Bowdoin

The bill at the Bowdoin Square changes today, both in pictures and vaudeville. One of the film features is "Trader Horn," a thrilling story of the African jungles. The picturesque scenery, the pygmies, the mode of living of the natives and a hundred other highlights are brought to view. The leading roles are well enacted by Harry Carey, Edwina Booth and Duncan Renaldo.

Irish Dances

Can you dance the Irish reel? The Irish four-hand reel? The Irish jig? The Irish [illegible]? If not, apply to Pat O'Brien for lessons. The young Irish actor of "The Front Page," now in "Flying High," makes a hobby of [illegible] the Irish dances.

YOUNG AMAZONS SEEM TO BE ON THE WAY OUT

The clinging vine with the stranglehold is insidious. It is only when a man goes to remove one of these, that he realizes what a JOB it is. Some women wrap themselves around and around a man like bandages around a mummy—until they paralyze his activity and can embalm him without his faintest protest.

Helping a pair of cute, little feet across the stream, binding up a dainty ankle, or catching a graceful swaying form is diverting—and even carrying 100 pounds of feminine inertia for a few yards has its compensations.

But, cheer up, Big Boy. There is no more chance that the Clinging Vine will ever come back, than there is that Santa Claus' whiskers will come back or that red flannel petticoats will reappear. STUFINESS is out of fashion, forever! And these Eugenie styles are only a gesture!

Ma's Death Shock to Venice

"LET ME go to her," Venice [illegible]

"Sh-sh, don't be upset, my dear. She telephoned me about twelve. Her chest had suddenly become painful, congested. I came right down. Pneumonia. [illegible]

"Please, please," cried Venice, "let me in."

[illegible] to disturb her mother.

Mrs. Muir lay flat on her back, [illegible]

"Is—is she asleep?" [illegible]

[illegible]

"She's dead," she shrieked. "She's dead."

[illegible]

"What'll I do?" she finally asked.

"I'll help you with everything," said Doctor Hawks. "You must try not to worry. I was with her at the end. It was very peaceful. She must have had a bad heart muscle."

[illegible] rooms. Venice approached it reluctantly. Dr. Hawks started [illegible]

"Good morning," he said gently. "I have to go to the hospital, but I'll be back in an hour or two. Would you like me to make embalming arrangements and attend to things for you?"

"Here," he suggested, taking hold of her arm and piloting her to her own room. "Let's make ourselves comfortable and talk a moment."

She gave him a wan smile. He was so good. She must show [illegible]

"I suppose you want to hurry back for the burial in America?"

"No. We—we had a conversation about it. It all seemed funny at the time. Mother wanted to be buried here."

"No," said Venice.

[illegible]

"Hello."

"Hi, Venice; it's Johnny. A hangover?"

"No. My mother has died suddenly."

[illegible]

"What?"

"Yes."

"Oh, Venice, I'm so sorry. I—er—is there anything I can do for you?"

"No, thank you. Goodby, Johnny."

[illegible]

"Doctor Hawks."

"Come in." She turned to smile wanly at him. "You've been so kind."

"Yes, I see. Are—are you going to stay on here?"

"I—I hadn't thought."

"I would like to move afterwards. When—when will the funeral be?"

"Yes."

"The American church and any cemetery that the consul thinks suitable?"

"Yes, please."

"Yes." She [illegible] here [illegible]

And then the American Church [illegible] Rue de [illegible]. She and Doctor Hawks sat [illegible] and the coffin was before them [illegible] with the flowers that she had bought. And under that mass of living green and gardenia white her mother lay dead.

"Come, my dear."

"Dear God," she prayed, "be good to her. Make me not mind."

Four Bored Girls Who Played Unfair Game With Jobs

By WINIFRED BLACK

THEY HAVE an apartment in town now, the four girls from the suburbs.

One is the doctor's daughter, one is the daughter of the successful lawyer, one has a retired fireman for a father and a sweet woman for a mother and one is the niece of a retired man of affairs.

Winifred Black

They sent her to boarding school, after boarding school they sent her to the university and when she came home [illegible] didn't know what on earth to do with herself.

There wasn't very much she could do, to tell the truth.

The lawyer's daughter went to the same college, and when she came home for good, she just couldn't stand it—that's all.

And Alice is a kind of assistant secretary to rather a progressive business woman. The progressive business woman has introduced Alice to a lot of her friends—fine intelligent, ambitious manly sort of persons who wear men's hats, men's shirts and collars and and boys' shoes.

And every one of these girls is keeping some poor girl out of an honest job. I wonder how they can have the heart to do it?

By MARTHA LEE

"LUNCH IS READY," comes the call from our convenient kitchen, and remembering [illegible] some [illegible] bread and a rather scrawny [illegible] [illegible] seemed about the sum total of the supplies on hand this morning, I wondered by what magic a lunch had been managed. [illegible] plates were steaming hot ham sandwiches with [illegible] sauce and the accompanying cups of comforting tea.

Martha Lee

The sandwiches were made by trimming the crusts from slices of buttered bread. Ham slices were fried lightly in butter and arranged on the bread and the whole covered with a sauce made by cooking diced apples in butter and water until soft and then adding to this sauce cooked raisins.

The familiar hot roast beef sandwich and these hot sandwiches certainly offer an attractive and economical way of using up the left-overs—is especially delicious served on buttered toasted bread with salt, pepper and grated horseradish sprinkled on the meat. Then the second slice of buttered bread is put on and left-over brown gravy poured over all.

FRENCH SANDWICH

Spread chopped raw round steak seasoned with onion, salt and pepper, between slices of bread. Press together firmly, and cut in half. Dip sandwich in egg and milk mixture (1 egg to a cup milk), and saute in hot fat until brown on both sides.

Martha Lee

P. S. Hundreds of housewives use macaroni and spaghetti in combination with meats, vegetables, cheese or eggs, and you probably have many favorite recipes of your own. Daily True Story

The Love Link

OVER THE LITTLE HOUSE on Bradford st. hung a silence that was a marked contrast to the usual bustle and noise. For Reddy was gone. His mother and his father stood stiffly in the living room facing each other.

"Well," said Harley Sammis, "I've asked the moving men to come in at ten; they ought to get all this stuff out by noon I should think. I'll mail you the receipts and I guess that's all."

[illegible] went [illegible] room of their six-year-old son who had been sent to his grandmother's there to receive the [illegible]

The room was on the second [illegible] the window faced out [illegible] at the back of the house [illegible] spent much thought and loving care in the days before Reddy came, and as they stepped into it now Francine was aware [illegible]

For all about the room were reminders of the little boy with the red hair over whose custody they had fought so bitterly. [illegible] Francine had given up on [illegible] when Harley had sworn he would never consent to the divorce unless he retained the custody of the boy.

"I'll tell you," he said to his wife, who was soon to sue for her freedom, "why do you bother with all this—it'll only upset you and I'll take care of it——"

SWEET MEMORIES

Francine didn't answer. She walked to the window and looked out in the garden. There was the little patch that Reddy had planted; she rememberd the day he had come in with his face wreathed in smiles with a petunia in his chubby hand. The vision was almost more than she could bear now. Without turning she said in a small voice, "Just leave me alone for a little while, Harley—I—I'd rather—there are just a few things I want to put aside—if you don't mind."

Harley looked at her with a surprised glance and silently left the room. Could it be possible that she was relenting? Could it be possible that her love for the boy would change the decision she had declared was irrevocable?

Upstairs Francine sank on the cot she had bought for Reddy when he outgrew the crib that had stood by her bed and Harley's. In one corner were some of his toys, each one reminiscent of happy moments. And now she was going to leave him, he was going out of her life forever. She knew well enough that even though she was to visit him now and again that it would never be the same. And what was [illegible]

A life with a very rich man who had always been crazy about her, who had given her [illegible] presents against the protests of her husband, who had kept up a consistent campaign to win her heart. Marshall Appleby had been open and aboveboard enough, as far as that went.

At first Francine had laughed at him. Even if Harley was poor in comparison, she was happy, or thought she was. Then times became harder and they had to let the cook go. She had done all her own housework for a year and she had given up the little parties she and Harley had delighted to give. Life had resolved itself into worrying and working and scrimping and there was no prospect of anything brighter.

Harley attempted to cheer her but in vain. Then he stopped and finally, trying not to show that he thought she was a quitter, he told her one evening that he knew what was in the back of her mind, and that if she wanted to marry Appleby she was free to do so.

But she couldn't have Reddy, he was immovable on that [illegible] and then Appleby himself [illegible] had sensed the opposition [illegible] and [illegible] her to divorce her husband.

NO CONSOLATION

It all came back to her now [illegible] and the [illegible] moment had arrived. She was breaking up her home—she was giving up Reddy—she was deserting Harley and she was going to become the wife of the town's richest man. She was going to Europe on her honeymoon, everything that money could buy was to be hers just as soon as the divorce arrangements were concluded.

Perhaps she'd have other children, but now she remembered that Appleby didn't care for children, she remembered how he tried to conceal his pleasure when she told him the hard bargain Harley had driven over Reddy.

"He's wise," he said, "better cut off completely all the ties of the old life—you'll soon forget, my dear—you'll have too many things to do to remember."

She rose from the cot and dabbed at her eyes. Then she went to the little desk where Reddy had done his childish exercises. She opened the top. There was a piece of paper there, laid out so that it must be read. And on it was written in Reddy's immature scrawl: "I love you, Mummy."

Francine took up the paper and crushed it to her heart. She went down the stairs noiselessly and saw her husband sitting in the old place. Stealing back of him she sank at his knees just as she had done in the first happy years and looked up at him with brimming eyes.

"Forgive me, Harley—forgive me," she said brokenly, "you tell them—those moving people—not to come—"

RICHARD B. SHERIDAN

Be silent, stands! Arise and bow your heads
In silent tribute to a gallant heart
That hard and cleanly lived and beat and fought
And played to the sad end its tragic part

Take heed, O youth! There lies before you now
A soldier, clean of body, clear of eye
Who played the game for all that it was worth
To show you how to live—and how to die

Fling open, Gates! A nation mourns and prays
For one who lived and loved it, then was gone
Fling open, Gates! unfold, ye portals, wide
A gallant little soul is marching on

[illegible]

"Mr. Comiskey set a good example for America by his red-blooded manhood with his honesty and love of good clean sport," said the Rev. [illegible] he died of a broken heart. He built up one of the greatest baseball clubs the game ever saw, pinned his faith and trust in his boys and then saw his mighty structure crash with the weight of disloyalty of those same players. The world of sport will always remember him and so will the poor who benefited so much by his charities. He was charitable and his left hand never knew what his right was doing for the poor and needy.

Old-Time Yale Gridmen Keep Eye on Youngsters

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 29 (AP)—The old boys seem to be keeping an eye on Yale footballers these days. At yesterday's practice, for example, such illustrious Yale gridiron heroes of the past were on hand as Frank Butterworth [illegible], Clarence Alcott, '08, Ralph Bloomfield '05; Willys Terry, '85; Jesse Spalding, '12 captain, Phil Smith, '05. Terry, old-timers recalled, was in the Eli backfield in 1884 when Dartmouth, which meets Yale here Saturday, bowed beneath a 113 to 0 score.

DeGlane will risk his heavyweight championship as well as his $10,000 diamond studded belt. It will be the champion's first Boston appearance since he defeated Gus Sonnenberg before 23,000 fans at Braves Field last summer.

DeGlane is one of the greatest all-around wrestlers the mat game has known. He rates with Frank Gotch and the other great mat champions.

Anyway, even if he had [illegible] a million dollars, the [illegible] man wouldn't be exactly [illegible] about it [illegible] for he is Gloomy Gil Dobie, the Cornell coach.

In fact, if Cornell should [illegible] Columbia the Gloomy [illegible] would not show [illegible] despite the fact [illegible] may depend on the [illegible] very game.

But there is an anti-Dobie crowd among Cornell alumni [illegible] would raise its head violently as it did two years ago if the big Red [illegible] happened to crack up against Columbia of all things.

The athletic associations, however, will hold all applicants responsible for proper use of their tickets and blacklisting will follow in any cases of speculation.

"Father Bill" Cuddy tells me he intends to feature heavyweights at the St. Joe's amateur boxing show at Mechanics Building on Saturday night. The big fellows always furnish action while they hand out their share of fouls.

You seldom find any stalling when a couple of amateur heavyweights start tossing punches. They know very little about the fine points of the boxing game, and merely try to knock the opposition cold. In attempting this feat they often run into serious trouble themselves.

Of course there will be bouts in five or six other classes at the St. Joe's show, but "Father Bill" stressed on the action that is assured in the heavyweight group.

School Notes

—By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Charlestown and Hyde Park will clash today at Smith Field in Brighton. Hyde Park has lost Walter Bracken, one of its best backs and the team will feel his absence.

Dorchester and English also mix things up today at the Fens Stadium. This should be one of the best schoolboy games of the season.

English will fear the Dorchester passing attack today. Stonehouse, Stock and Snow have been winning ball games for Dorchester this season by the aerial route and will give Leo Daley's English boys a lot of bother.

Daley has shifted Capt. Jim Costello from tackle to the backfield to take the place of the injured Bill Ryan at fullback. [illegible] a big boy [illegible] expected to add more punch to the [illegible] offensive.

He will also be a [illegible] clearing [illegible] for the fleet English ball carriers [illegible] McDermott and Sullivan.

Cambridge Latin will play Brookline high school tomorrow and not on Saturday as originally scheduled. LaRonde, Cambridge Latin backfield star, will be missing. He is still laid up with a bad head injury.

Tony Geniawicz, former Lynn English all-round star, is starting to go at Clark school in Hanover, N. H. Tony was stopped in the first game with the Dartmouth freshmen, but since then has been up to his old tricks of running wild with a football.

Jimmy Scraphin was in the lineup for South Boston [illegible] helped the Peninsula eleven to a win over Commerce which was attempting to make a comeback.

Grid Fray Slated

SPORTS REEL

Lefty wins again! Lefty Grove, great pitcher of the Athletics, has another win to his credit now that the baseball writers have selected him the most valuable player in the American League for 1931. Lefty won this honor by a good margin, with Lou Gehrig of the Yanks second. Al Simmons, of the A's grabbed third place.

Shaver of the U. S. C. Trojans knifed inside tackle, with perfect blocking to aid him, in the game with the U. of California Bears. The Trojans skun the Bears, 6 to 0. Shaver of the victors copped a large portion of the glory. He is an All-American candidate.

After several professors had tripped over flowing whiskers, students at Hobart College, who vowed not to shave until the team won, were requested to reach for a razor instead of a comb and divest themselves of their foliage.

"I never could have licked those [illegible] Philistines," Sampson is quoted as saying, "if I shaved every day."

The Hobart team also figured that if they went on the field attired like the House of David their opponents would think they were playing a couple of other teams, and in their confusion lose the game.

The failure of the market to recognize the development of expected good news is interpreted as indicating it had taken the items into account in advance. At the same time it is felt unfavorable news is overhanging the market and it too is being discounted prior to publication. The financial community is convinced the unfavorable news will deal with Germany's abandoning the gold standard.

Prince or Pauper

Once again the steel industry is proving the contention of the late Andrew Carnegie that it was fated to play the part of prince or pauper. No middle ground for this great trade. Back in 1921 three consecutive quarters in the red contrived to place U. S. Steel on a basis many considered absurd and almost certain never to be duplicated. Yet today, ten years later, it is proportionately as cheap when the vast sums plowed back in improvements and [illegible] in increased earnings capacity are considered.

Today's market was [illegible] dull and professional affair [illegible] a handful of the favorites churned around. Bethlehem Steel was unsettled by uncertainty over dividend action, news of which was withheld until after the close of the market. The stock dropped to a new low before rallying [illegible]

American Tobacco's Issues Have Drop

American Tobacco common and B sold off 4 to 5 points [illegible] The selling was [illegible] reflection of disappointment over directors' failure to declare the [illegible] extra dividend. However, [illegible] and other reputable news sources had given ample previous notice the extra would not be ordered at this week's meeting. Some brokerage circles look for extra tobacco dividends at the next quarterly meeting, however.

Public Service Is Well Bought

Interest in Gold Mining Shares

Interest continues in the gold mining stocks not only in this country but also in Canada, where these issues were unusually popular in the past. Advices from the Dominion state that Dome Mines is now operating at much lower costs than the average for several years and the showing this year will be unusually satisfactory. Estimates in Canada are that around $1.70 a share can be reported for 1931, which compares with $1 a share dividend requirement for the year. Some local interests have been showing somewhat more activity in the stock at times in the past few weeks on the theory that all the good mining stocks will become attractive again in the near future.

New York Air Brake Well Deflated

Various commission houses make the point that New York Air Brake is one of the stocks which has been well deflated in the past. The stock for a time held better than many others but eventually it succumbed to the forced selling which was in evidence in all directions prior to the beginning of the current month. The contention is made that the company is in excellent financial position with cash and government bond holdings estimated to be equal to about $6 a share, while current assets are placed at $11 a share.

Steel Loses Again

Superior Steel Company reported September quarter net loss of $140,311, against net loss of $96,263 in the third quarter last year.

—SPECTATOR— Says:

Three successive days of decline have carried the market back to a level at which important support should be evidenced if stocks are to maintain their current uptrend.

However, all things considered, the list as a whole has not been performing badly. It is becoming more and more apparent with each passing session that a selective weeding out process is taking place, rather than any general downward revision of prices.

Rail Action

Take the rail group, for example. The present weakness in issues such as New York Central, Pennsylvania and Illinois Central, all of which sagged to new bear market lows, failed to influence any burst of liquidation in other rails such as was the case some weeks ago.

The [illegible] of the Dow-Jones averages [illegible] reached on October 5, was [illegible] The present standing of the rails is [illegible] more than 4 points higher. The Chartist theory is that the establishment of a double bottom for this group is in prospect, and according to this line of thought [illegible] these [illegible] could be a [illegible] development.

Douglas Shoe to Change to No Par

W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. voted to change its $100 par common stock, of which there are 15,400 shares outstanding, to no-par stock. This stock is all held by estate of W. L. Douglas and management of the company.

Under the plan the company will reduce stated value of the common stock on its books to $770,000 and a like amount will be credited to surplus account.

Sugar Exchange to Start New Contract

Type Founders Co. Net $2.03 a Share

New York, Oct. 29 (AP). Report of American Type Founders Co., excluding National Paper & Type Co. for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, shows net profit of $463,151, equal to $2.03 a common share, compared with $1,104,241, or $9.16 a common share, in the preceding fiscal year.

RAILS DO BEST IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

UNDER 1,500,000 SHARES.

Tobacco shares were weak, American Tobacco losing more than 3 and Liggett & Myers "B" about 2. Changes elsewhere were narrow, mostly within fractional distance of yesterday's close.

U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Bethlehem recovered early losses of a point. Transactions fell below 1,500,000 shares.

The share market got off to a poor start, with a slump in the tobacco shares, spreading to other sections of the list. After noon, however, losses of a point or so were regained in the steels, and the rails pushed up rather strongly, several issues getting up 2 points or so.

The upturn in the rail shares was accompanied by gossip in brokerage circles over the prospect of the carriers reaching an agreement with their employes for a temporary wage reduction.

WHEAT AIDED CARRIERS

There is some expectation in Wall Street that this matter may be brought to a head after the railway executives' meeting in Chicago early next month. The improvement in the wheat market has also been regarded as a bullish factor in the rails.

Jersey Central, having already paid $8 in dividends this year, took no further action at its meeting today. That carrier has been on a regular dividend basis of $2 quarterly, to which had been added semi-annual extras of $2, making $12 annually.

American Tobacco shares backed up on news that only the regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 had been ordered, with no mention of further extras. Furthermore, there has been some gossip over a possible reduction in wholesale cigarette prices. Some brokerage quarters expect the company to order further extra payments at the next quarterly meeting.

Wheat and Corn in Buenos Aires Soar

Buenos Aires, Oct. 29 (AP)—A sharp rise in the prices of wheat and corn today was attributed to heavy buying in London on the theory that a tariff is iimminent in Great Britain and that grain was being rushed to British elevators before the new government could take any tariff action.

The spot value of wheat rose to approximately 48½ cents a bushel.

Bank of England's Gold Holdings Off

London, Oct. 29 (INS)—Gold holdings of the Bank of England now total 136,937,421 pounds, a decrease of 62,579 pounds from last week, it was revealed in an official statement today. Gold reserves total 55,906,181 pounds, a decrease of 93,819 pounds. Proportion of reserves to notes in issue decreased from 42.9 per cent to 41.9.

$7 in Liquidating Dividend Ordered

Union Mills, Inc., declared a dividend in liquidation of $7 a share on the common stock, payable November 5 to stock of record November 2. This is the second dividend in liquidation, the initial payment of $10 being made last March. Certificates should be sent to Kidder, Peabody & Co., New York, transfer agents, to be stamped and returned as further dividends may be expected.

Earnings Increased by Glass Company

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Hazel-Atlas Glass Co. of Wheeling, W. Va., continued in the third quarter its record of increased earnings over the last year as shown by reports of two preceding quarters. Company reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30 net income of $1,063,988, equal to $2.45 a share, compared with $529,332, or $1.22 a share, in the like period of 1930.

Holland Furnace's Sales Near to Peak

New York, Oct. 29—The Holland Furnace Co. reports retail sales of its products last month were only ⅛ of 1 per cent less than in September, 1929, the largest September in its history.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Oct. 29—Cotton futures today were barely steady, 3 to 7 points lower. December, 6.59; January, 6.63; March, 6.73; May, 7; July 7.15.

Study of Outlook fo Companies Is Given

According to Standard Statistics Company, the mos promising outlook is held out to the utilities, dairy product companies, package foods concerns, refrigerator manufactur ers and cigarette companies.

Those whose prospects rate as good include the automobile companies (passenger), beverage companies, flour and feed concerns, shoe manufacturers and makers of metal containers, including cans.

Despite the depression, American industry has been able to put through a number of marvelous projects which in time will produce bountifully for the industries and corporations backing them up.

Well up in this division is the 1300-mile pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to Chicago, designed to convey natural gas to the Mid-West centers of population. The $60,000,000 George Washington bridge spanning the Hudson, from which a gross income of $10,000,000 annually is expected, is entitled to a place in these epoch-making projects.

Progressive business heads do not indorse the view that a new industry is needed to pull the country out of depression as did the automobile and construction industries in the early post-war era. Many people are two years behind in their purchasing of clothing, household goods, automobile tires, etc., as well as the doing of necessary repairs to their property.

Coralling of this pent-up buying demand would go a great distance toward emptying the shelves of unsold goods and speeding up the wheels of production.

Manufacturers in all lines are all set to go. What they need is a steady volume of incoming business, whether from home or foreign sources. Evidences of these incoming orders, with the stiffening of commodity prices, will constitute a much better "barometer" of business recovery than the stock market.

DU PONT'S EARNINGS

H. T. E., Milton—Can you give me anything on the earnings of du Pont and Lambert? I bought 50 shares of each in State st. a fortnight ago.

Ans.—The E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., in preliminary statement for quarter ended September 30, states the company earned $1.11 a share on [illegible] average common shares of $20 par. This would compare with $1.05 a common share on 11,009,744 average common shares in the third quarter of 1920.

For nine months ended September 30 common share earnings were equal to $3.34 a share, against $3.88 a share in the same period of the previous year.

Lambert Co. reports for the quarter ended September 30 a consolidated net profit of [illegible] after charges and taxes, equal to $2.39 a share on [illegible] shares. This compares with $1,462,222, or $1.95 a share in the previous quarter, and $1,904,121, or $2.54 a share in the September quarter of 1930.

Consolidated net profit for the nine months totaled $5,361,317, equal to $7.16 a share as against $5,668,471, or $7.56 a share, in the corresponding period of the preceding year.

SELECTS SOUND STOCK

H. P., Medford—I have $2000 for investment and am considering the purchase of 20 shares Jersey Central Power & Light 7 per cent preferred. I will have $2000 left in the savings bank for emergencies.

Ans.—In that you are sensible. Jersey Central Power & Light 7 per cent preferred is a sound stock. The company, controlled by National Public Service, serves about 200 communities in New Jersey. Earnings have continued on an upward trend for the past several years. Fifteen shares could be bought for less than $1600. You would get $105 annually, or 6½ per cent.

SCOTT PAPER CO.

T. T. R., Milton—Have you any recent report on Scott Paper?

Ans.—The Scott Paper Co. reports for nine months ended Sept. 27, 1931, net profit of $754,404 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal after preferred dividends to $3.82 a share on 165,488 common shares, against $753,526 or $3.96 a share on 159,097 common shares outstanding in the first nine months of 1930. Net profit in the September quarter was $235,387, equal to $1.17 a share on 165,488 common shares, against $215,043 or $1.05 a share on 165,268 common shares in the preceding quarter, and $251,268 or $1.32 a share on 159,097 common shares in the third quarter of 1930.

Current assets as of Sept. 27, last, amounted to $2,449,231 and current liabilities $481,833, against $2,049,778 and $578,997, respectively, at the end of September, 1930.

DIVIDEND HALVED

S. T., Brookline—Would you advise buying Federal Water Service "A" at current levels? I notice it is selling considerably below prices earlier in the year.

Ans.—Federal Water Service "A," with quarterly payment of 30 cents a share Sept. 1, was put on a $1.20 annual basis, compared with the $2.40 rate paid from Sept. 1, 1929. In 1930 earnings were $3.34 a share, contrasted with $4.50 in 1929. Net income for 12 months ended Aug. 31 amounted to $2,774,271, against $3,149,874 for preceding 12 months.

THREE STOCKS

M. L., Boston—I have set aside $3000 for investment in stocks. Please give suggestions.

Ans.—For a bit less than $3000 you could get 10 shares each North American Edison preferred, Public Service of New Jersey 5 per cent preferred, and 20 Standard Gas & Electric $4 preferred. The annual income of $190 is 6⅓ per cent. Dividends on these stocks are being covered comfortably.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

(Copyright, 1931, for the Boston Evening American.)

Dramatic critic says Jane Cowl is the best Camille of recent times because no other star ever coughed so intelligently.

* * *

* * *

LET'S HAVE A GOOD CRY AND HAVE IT OVER

By B. C. FORBES

AN ARRAY of inspiring facts concerning this country's possessions and blessings was presented in this column yesterday, captioned, "Lest We Forget."

A well-known industrial counsel, C. E. Knoeppel, sends the suggestion: "Let's have a good cry, then begin the task of thinking straight and courageously."

The idea has a timely appeal.

B. C. Forbes

He writes:

On all sides you hear business men wailing:

"Business is rotten; collections are bad; we're losing heavily on our material contracts; sales are falling off sharply; our banks won't help us like they did in the past; we're getting deeper and deeper in red; we are working only half-time and have already cut wages and salaries. Where is it all going to end?"

The resulting fog is so thick that we are milling around like cattle, and so scattered we can't hear the bell-cow.

Soulful Sob-Fest an Antidote

The only factory working twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, is the "rumor" factory, yielding plenty of orders to the "red ink" factories.

To use plain American language, what has become of the much-vaunted guts of American business men? What was it that put "wishbones" where "backbones" are usually found?

Has anyone stolen any of our money? Have our shops and machines been dynamited? Have our mines been flooded? Has fire destroyed our forests? Have our trains stopped running? Have our materials suddenly become useless? Are we threatened with wars and possible invasion? Have our workers suddenly been stricken with cramps, charlie horse, color blindness, palsy and apoplexy? Have the needs and wants of our 125,000,000 men, women and kiddies suddenly evaporated?

Come on, you pessimists, let's cry!

Selling the Country Short

Then, when you wipe your eyes and start to smile (as people usually do after turning on the optical waterworks), you can better appreciate that we have everything now that we had before this depression appeared—barring one single thing: moral courage

We're doing a lot of "beefing" because of short sales on the stock market, yet here we are as a people deliberately, if unconsciously, slaughtering values because we are selling our own country short. We are doing this because we "think" more things are wrong than right—which isn't so.

We lack nothing that is material; not a single thing essential to prosperity and business success has been lost. It's just our lack of straight, clear, clean, two-fisted "thinking" about the fundamental soundness of this great country and its marvelous institutions.

All we need is a change in thinking; a re-dedication to the spiritual realities which guided those who founded this republic—the greatest nation in time's recorded history—who went through hardships, strife, difficulties, suffering, and even war, guided by one thing, moral fortitude.

So, let us, their none too worthy successors, have a good cry, then begin the task of thinking straight and courageously.

Must We Fight to Save Old Ironsides Again?

Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
Oh better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the sea
Than she should rot at obscure dock
From Hoover economy.

In its frenzied hysteria for ten-cent economy, the Hoover Administration at Washington proposes to decommission Old Ironsides, pride of the American Navy, and to tie her up at an obscure wharf there.

It could have been expected.

For if there ever was a government unappreciative of American history and unmoved by American ideals, it is the one at Washington today.

On every beam, on every deck, from bowsprit to stern, from topmast to keel, the blood of fine American seamen has written her majesty into the imperishable naval annals of America.

For what?

That America might be acclaimed a great maritime Nation, with her people and her trade respected in their rights to use the seven seas of the world.

That America might be recognized as capable of defending herself and her people in any emergency or any danger that threatened them.

But it means everything—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—to the common American people.

We of Boston, where she was built, where she was provisioned, where she went forth for her brave exploits and adventures, want her, Mr. Hoover to the contrary notwithstanding.

We want her as we want our Faneuil Hall, Boston Common and Bunker Hill, because they all represent fine American traditions before they were diluted with unpatriotic internationalism.

Boston can get her and bring her back here where she belongs and where proper homage will be paid to her memory.

Public sentiment can do THAT.

Deluge the White House and Navy Department with patriotic protests.

Let's not go to sleep on this. Make your protest NOW. Wake them up at Washington.

Dr. Jeremiah E. Burke

The people have lost a beloved friend, a distinguished educator and a superb public servant in the death of Dr. Jeremiah E. Burke, Superintendent of Schools of Boston.

His departure is a severe shock, for only yesterday he engaged in the dedication of the Mary Curley School and administered the important affairs of the school system as usual.

All his active life he had devoted earnestly and loyally to the realm of education.

For the past ten years, as Superintendent in Boston, he had occupied the most important post in the public school life of America. Here in Boston the public school system was inaugurated. From this city, the system of public education had spread over this country. Its reputation was and is world-wide.

As we lament his passing and as we look back over his record, we can say of him truthfully that he fulfilled the noblest traditions that have existed since the days of our own Horace Mann.,

The children and adults of Boston, many thousands of whom received their education under his leadership, will grieve his passing. But they will feel richer that he lived among us.

Capital Silhouettes

PRESIDENT HOOVER, whose economy budget has just sliced $61,000,000 from the fleet, comes out in favor of "a navy capable of coping with a foreign foe," while all the brave old sea-dogs stand around with their gags hurting.

* * *

MR. HOOVER permits it to become known that "immediate" independence for the Philippines is impossible, that little adjective "immediate" being quite a word of promise to the Filipino ear.

* * *

AL SMITH coached Mlle. Laval in her farewell speech delivered in English, and when she gets back to Paris, if anybody tries to tell her that her father now likes ice water better than wine, she can reply, "It's a lot of boloney!"

Listen, World!
By Elsie Robinson

The Unknown Quantity

I WAS a little girl, taking my first lesson in algebra. A confused, cross little girl.

"Let X represent the unknown quantity," said the teacher.

Elsie Robinson

What on earth did she mean? What was this new thing—this "unknown quantity"? Weren't there already enough tiresome known figures to add, subtract, divide and multiply without dragging in this mysterious and utterly unnecessary "X"? Just another way to make a fellow miserable—

The other youngsters scribbled busily, but I sat sulking at my paper.

"Why don't you take down what I told you?" demanded the teacher. "Don't you understand?"

"No, I don't," I grumbled. "Unknown quantity. What's that mean? I don't see any unknown quantity."

"There is always an unknown quantity," said the teacher.

Long since I have forgotten all the algebra I ever learned but I have never forgotten that answer. With each new, slowly turning page of life, I realize its truth anew.

THERE IS ALWAYS AN UNKNOWN QUANTITY.

Human experience—How cocksure I was at 20 that I could outsmart Fate! How certain that I knew how to add, subtract, multiply and divide the elements of life so that they would result in success and joy. And how soon I was to learn that "the best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley"!

For you never can tell. The shrewdest plan will crumble and the flimsiest plan succeed. And we think it's because God is picking on us. But of course it isn't. It is simply a matter of Faith. Lacking Faith, our shrewdness goes for naught. Filled with Faith, an idiot or a child can move a mountain. But why and what is Faith—that most unknown quantity? The stuff that dreams are made of? Or Life's fiercest dynamite?

And again, those other unknown quantities—grief and shame and heart-break? I had heard of these things at 20. But I thought—as Youth always thinks—that they were accidents, which a man might take or leave as he chose. And now I saw that they were beyond any man's choice or refusal . . . or understanding. No man could tell when these things might happen to him nor, still stranger, what they would do to him. For shame was often the beginning of the finest pride! And a broken heart was often the most fertile!

Human experience—you never could tell. Human behavior—that was even more mysterious. I had thought that black was black, and white was white . . . that hate and love and beauty and ugliness were as fixed as the multiplication tables. But here, again, was that unknown quantity!

Why was cruelty sometimes kind? And kindness sometimes cruel?

Why was some love more vicious than hate? And some hate more fair and free than love?

And what was this thing that went on in the hearts of all men—the laborer in the ditch, the fool in the gutter, the king on the throne, the criminal in the electric chair . . . this flickering, wistful dream that shone like a candle through all darkness . . . this sharp, untarnished pride that flashed like a blade above the slime—what was it?

THE UNKNOWN QUANTITY. The spark of God in an image made of clay. The hand of God above the troubled water. THE UNKNOWN QUANTITY . . . IT WAS ALWAYS THERE.

What Do You Know?

1. Were hoopskirts ever ridiculed in the Boston press?
2. When was spinning exhibited on Boston Common?
3. Was long hair for ministers ever condemned publicly?
4. How much were tobacco chewers fined if caught in Boston?
5. When were idle persons in Boston ordered to be whipped?

Answers to today's test:

1. Yes. In Benjamin Franklin's newspaper, Feb., 1725. 2. Aug., 1721. 3. In 1649. 4. One penny. In 1632. 5. Dec. 6, 1785.

Musical Revues

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—While the comedy and drama seem to have gone into a tailspin in the legitimate theater this season, the musical revue has spurted into new and amazing favor. Doubts were expressed for these honeyed extravaganzas due to the flop of talkie versions. Yet—

The three most heavily patronized shows so far have been the Scandals, Vanities and the Follies. While they have been packed to capacity, the other forms of legitimate theater amusements meet only a desultory reception. The inference is the public is in the mood for light diversions.

Ziegfeld, Carroll and White have gone to lavish lengths to dazzle their customers. Each is said to have spent more than a quarter million in his displays. And not in the history of the Rialto have there been such conspicuously triumphant first nights.

Even the depression put no damper on the sky prices New Yorkers will pay for the sort of show they want to see. Speculators had no trouble whatever in disposing of choice seats for the premieres at $100 each, and in one instance $300 for a pair down front on the aisle.

Handling traffic at such openings is an increasingly difficult police problem. At one it was necessary for mounted police to form their horses into a lane from entrance to curb so audience could safely depart.

Aside from the "celebrity curious" are the insistent swarms of autograph hunters who surround notables with outstretched albums and pens for signatures. A movie star was so roughly handled upon one occasion she had to return to her car and home to change costume.

The new 14-storied, five million dollar home of the New York Curb Exchange is a striking contrast for those who remember the monkeyish antics of curb brokers in other days. The new home is at Trinity Place and Greenwich street, whereas the old was literally the curbs of Broad street. In old days the brokers squatted in office windows and ambidextrously signalled in finger language buying and selling orders to representatives in the streets. It offered a milling spectacle of high tensioned excitement to the stranger.

* * *

My earliest recollection of the Broad street curb was the noonday sermon of "The Bishop of Wall Street," a benign, silver-haired preacher who mounted a soap box among the money changers to remind them there were spiritual values greater than those of Mammon. Oddly, he always attracted large and respectful audiences.

While the stately Empire building receives oodles of free puffs in various New York theaters, it is also the target for much—and it seems to me cruel—kidding. Emptiness is the theme, yet those who know say that when the pick-up begins it will fill magically as innumerable other buildings have that got off to a bad start.

* * *

A wheeze about the Empire by Willie Howard concerns the despondent gentleman who leaped from the top of the spire a week ago. "Where did he land?" he was asked. Howard replies: "Nowhere, yet."

* * *

Then there was George Jessel's bright thrust at Jesse Lasky, who in digressing in a banquet speech suddenly inquired: "Let me see, where . . I?" Shrieked Jessel: "In the Hotel Astor. And your name is Lasky!"

* * *

Bread cast on Broadway waters: Six years ago she told him: "You have a wife and I no longer want the label 'Kept.' Loan me enough to start a business of my own." He did. She prospered and paid him in full. The other day she heard he was facing bankruptcy and sent a check that prevented it.

I walked my clown Sealyham to Grand Central today to meet a friend. When the train came thundering in the dog bolted for upper levels like a blue streak and was found huddled and trembling with terror under a newsstand. Sometimes you cannot get the country out of a dog, either.

Time to Plan for American Relief
By Claude G. Bowers

THE CONFERENCES with M. Laval in Washington are over and the result is set forth in an official statement couched in language so vague in places as to suggest Talleyrand's idea that language is given us that we may conceal our thoughts. The outstanding achievement, on which there can be no doubt, is an agreement to maintain the gold standard and the Young Plan. It is more than probable that the Premier carries back to Paris the understanding that President Hoover, in due time, will propose a further scaling down of the debts.

Some good has been accomplished through a frank exchange of views, and to this Senator Borah has made an important contribution One of the reasons for the confusion of European statesmen and publicists in the interpretation of America is due to their tendency to confuse the views of one class in one section of one city with those of the millions of Americans living from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboards.

The wisest politician I have ever known was a corporation lawyer with no prejudices against Wall Street, but I once heard him say: "Whenever I am in doubt about the popular reaction on any measure, I go to New York and talk with the fellows at the tip of the island and in the clubs frequented by the financiers, and when I find what they are saying, I know that the very opposite is what the country is thinking."

It is easy for European statesmen and publicists to get the interpretation of America from the tip of the island of Manhattan. They meet men from this quarter in the European capitals. Thus do they blunder in their interpretation of America. That is the reason that Borah, racy of the soil, rendered a real service in the interview which he gave in courteous response to the request of the French correspondents.

* * *

The Only Way to Discover America

If M. Laval was shocked at what he heard from Borah it is because he had heard nothing of the sort before. When the Premier was holding frequent conferences with John Pierpont Morgan in Paris, before announcing his visit to America, he could not have heard the Borah views at all. For Wall Street is the last place in the world to get an accurate interpretation of the average American; just as Borah is the last man in the world to interpret Wall Street to the foreigner. By getting the interpretations of both, M. Laval is the gainer. It is the only way to discover America.

The real achievements of the conference are those in which the big bankers are particularly interested—the maintenance of the gold standard, the preservation of the Young Plan, and probably the promise of the Administration further to scale down the debts.

The security pact was dropped because utterly impossible of realization, and our own policies are rapidly paving the way toward the cancellation of the debts.

* * *

Making It Impossible for Debtors to Pay

We are paving the way to that, because we are making it impossible for our debtors to make the money with which to pay. We are making it impossible through a prohibitive tariff wall which makes it all but impossible for them to trade with us. Senator Cordell Hull has an interesting observation on that phase:

"The debtor nations cannot pay their war debts if we exclude their trade by high tariff walls. A continuation of this policy means just that. These preliminaries are leading in that direction.

"In 1920, when I suggested such an outcome if the tariff rates were raised, Representative Longworth, speaking for the Republican Party, said the Republicans would cancel the debts rather than surrender their policy."

That is probably the reason these conferees in Washington, seeking a solution of the differences between the two countries, did not mention the tariff, which is one of the outstanding differences that is operating to the disadvantage of both nations.

* * *

Time to Consider Situation at Home

Now that the Administration has this conference in the background, it may be possible to persuade it to hold a few conferences on the very serious situation at home, affecting not so much the bankers as the farmers, the unemployed workers, the small merchants and miners. On Sunday, when the statement on the results of the conference was being drawn, Americans , listening to the radio talk from Germany, heard this:

"We have no more unemployed, in proportion to the population, than you have in America."

Only recently Lloyd George, in a radio speech that was not permitted to reach us for some mysterious reason, told his English hearers that in proportion to the population more breadwinners are unemployed here than in England.

We hear so much about the misery of Europe—just put a pin in this:

Proportionately we have as many unemployed as Germany; more than England; more than Italy; while comparatively few are unemployed in France. We are really Lady Bountiful in Rags.

Now that M. Laval is gone, perhaps the Administration will have the time, if not the inclination, to consider plans for such readjustments here as will make for the rehabilitation of America. It appears to have all sorts of plans for other people, and plans for the big bankers here, but—

Does it plan to scale down the prohibitive tariff walls?

Or plan industrial readjustment making for the stabilization of employment?

Or plan a conference of any sort to bring order out of chaos in the mining industry, now in the state of anarchy?

Now that the Administration has waved farewell to Laval, will it turn to survey the scene at home and assume some leadership in the solution of the vital problems here?

Just Folks

A Strange Gentleman

A gentleman I do not know,
Some thousand miles away,
So fond of me appears to be
He writes me every day
And wants to know if I'm the sort
Content through life to toil
Where I can make, if I'm a sport,
A fortune out of oil.

"Waste not a moment! Do it now!"
His strange epistles read.
"For if you wait, 'twill be too late,
I'll soon have all I need.
When fortunes I dispense
In just another month or two,
Your lack of common sense.

"Go beg and borrow all you can
And send it on to me!
Seven hundred times, your shiny dimes
Returned to you will be.
My friend, my friend, do not delay!
Send me your money right away,

'Tis very nice to find
A stranger who is all for you,
So generous and so kind.
But still the dollars that I make
To him I do not send,
Because I do not wish to take
